Apparently our ability to recover from disasters has been deprioritized (we knew THAT six years ago). If your town gets wrecked because of crumbling infrastructure it's your own fault for voting Republican when you needed a good old jobs program.

It will only get worse.

1529. Are there Really 70 'Socialist' members of Congress?

<http://www.politifact.com/oregon/statements/2011/aug/29/blog-posting/bloggers-claim-peter-defazio-and-earl-blumenauer-a/>

<http://bit.ly/pg32AS>

Democratic Rep. Peter DeFazio has been called a lot of things over his 12 terms in Congress -- hot head, visionary, renegade, principled, effective and determined.

Now, if a burst of activity on websites and blogs in recent weeks is to be believed, DeFazio is something else -- a socialist.

And he’s not alone. The posts, all of which piggyback from a single offering that has been replicated on dozens of websites in recent weeks, says there are 70 card-carrying Socialists in the House of Representatives, including Rep. Earl Blumenauer, another Democrat from Oregon. (The number actually varies. Some posts say 70 while others insist it’s either 73 or 76. One post used both 76 and 75 in the same entry.)

An Aug. 12 post on the website for a group called Sovereign Citizens United mentions DeFazio and Blumenauer by name. It also says this: "I’m sure if you asked random people on the street if we had open socialists in the US Congress, they would say – well only Bernie Sanders (Senate). But the right answer is much, much worse."

"This should come as a surprise to absolutely no one," says an Aug. 16 post on ConservativeByte.com. "The radical Marxist-progressives (communists) took control of the Democrat party some time ago. They’ve only become more emboldened with the election of Barack Obama, who was raised as a communist from birth."

In case you miss the point, the post comes equipped with a large and very bright hammer and sickle emblem.

While most of the names politicians are called are opinions, calling a congressman a Socialist sounds both emphatic and exact, which always gets our attention here at PolitiFact Oregon.

Another thing that gets our attention is when a claim gets spread far and wide. This one meets that test, too.

Here’s a blog post on Aug. 17 by Texas radio host Dan Cofall, whose show airs out of Fort Worth:

"The magic number ‘70’ is the number of members of the 111th Congress who are members of the Democratic Socialists of America (DSA). These are not

Cofall did not respond to an email asking for comment. And we couldn’t reach anyone from ConservativeByte.

Before we get to our ruling, let’s begin with some basics. Congress resets itself every two years, which means the current edition is the 112th Congress, not the 111th. Why does that matter? Because the new Congress that begins in January every two years always follows an election and some of the people on the list are no longer in office.

Cofall acknowledges this but then continues to list names from the 111th Congress anyway. Those listed as "card carrying" socialists who are no longer serving include: Robert Wexler (Florida), Phil Hare (Illinois), John Hall (New York), Alan Grayson (Florida), and Neil Abercrombie (Hawaii).

Then there’s this: Real card-carrying Socialists say those members, including DeFazio and Blumenauer, aren’t Socialists.

The list that Cofall and dozens more rely upon "is completely fraudulent," said Frank Llewellyn, who served as national director of the Democratic Socialists of America for 10 years until stepping down July 5.

There is not one member of Congress who is a formal member of the DSA, Llewellyn said. In order to join, a person must fill out a form and pay dues. Even Vermont Sen. Bernie Sanders, a self-described democratic socialist, is not a formal member of the DSA, Llewellyn said.

The last member of Congress who was an actual card-carrying member, he said, was California Democratic Rep. Ron Dellums, who served 28 years in the House until leaving in 1998.

Llewellyn and DSA’s new national director, Maria Svart are chagrined for two reasons. First, they have to spend time knocking down reports that never seem to go away.

Second, Llewellyn said, "if we had formal political relationships with 70-odd members, we would be making a lot more money’’ from dues.

For the record, both DeFazio and Blumenauer say they’ve never been associated with the Democratic Socialists of America.

"This is another made-up Internet rumor that has no merit," DeFazio said.

"I am a proud Democrat who has taken many independent stands over the years. I am anti-so called free trade, pro-American jobs, pro-infrastructure investment, pro-fair taxation, anti-amnesty, pro-balanced budget amendment, pro-Wall Street re-regulation, and pro-audit the Pentagon and Federal Reserve. I am an Oregonian and an independent thinker."

Blumenauer was equally annoyed.

"No matter which side of the political aisle it comes from, this kind of name calling and rhetoric represents exactly what is wrong with our democracy today," he said. "Rather than bringing people together to solve our nation's problems, it spreads false and divisive allegations throughout the media and the public. It is a major distraction from the real work that needs to get done."

Bad information gets spread all the time. But where did the number, or numbers, come from?

The list purported to have originated with the DSA says this on page two:

Q: How many members of the U.S. Congress are also members of the DSA?

A: Seventy

It then lists them by name. What it does not say is that the names are simply lifted en masse from the membership of the Congressional Progressive Caucus, a collection of liberal-leaning lawmakers that includes DeFazio and Blumenauer but officially, not a single socialist.

According to its website, the Progressive Caucus is one of the largest in Congress and works for such causes as economic justice, civil rights and civil liberties as well as global peace and security. Llewellyn said that DSA supports some of the policy positions of the caucus.

Voicing support for positions embraced by a group of lawmakers is a routine part of business on Capitol Hill and is employed by organizations as disparate as the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Rifle Association and NORML, a group devoted to legalizing the use of marijuana. But agreeing with some positions doesn’t make a member of Congress a card-carrying Socialist.

Llewellyn says similar accusations of Socialism (with a capital S) have surfaced every election year since 1991 when the Progressive Caucus was created.

"There’s nothing we can do to stop it, Llewellyn said. "I can’t tell you the number of times we’ve tried to stop it."

Misinformation and smear campaigns also are part of political life. But these persistent claims about socialists are riddled with errors and outright lies. Any one of the problems would be sufficient to discredit the report, but taken together, the effort is flagrantly false. For that reason, we rate this claim: Pants on Fire.

Again, Rex's inability to hold two discrete thoughts in his head at the same time has struck again. First, nothing happened in New York City. Second, the subject was FEMA being broke and having to juggle relief funds while Eric Cantor continues to be a bitch.

The weather is getting wetter. We have many levees nationwide that are structurally deficient. We have sinking cities that need to be raised because the level of the oceans is rising, pretty quickly in some places.

If you don't pay up front, it'll cost more on the backside. Of course you could just refuse to pay at all. That's the Republican/Fascist way.

In my experience, what we call UFOs, the flying saucers, come from the planets of our own system. Not from the Pleiades, or Sirius or somewhere outside our solar system, but from, mainly, Mars and Venus. A few other planets like Jupiter and Mercury are involved, but the vast majority of sightings of the UFOs come from Mars and Venus. Practically all of them are made on Mars, even the Venusian ones. They are Venusian in design, and they are quite distinct, different in design and technology, but they are actually constructed on Mars. And they are all constructed by thought.

The people in physical bodies on Mars and Venus, Mercury, Jupiter and so on are not at the same level or vibration of physicality that we experience. We know only three aspects of the physical: solid physical, liquid physical and gaseous physical. Above gas there are still four further levels of physical matter which so far have not been discovered on this planet. When they are discovered we will understand a great deal more about the nature and origin of disease, the purpose of life on this planet and of the reality of life on other planets.

The beings on Mars and Venus and the other planets are on the four higher levels of the physical. If you went to Mars or Venus you would see no one, but nevertheless they are in physical matter, and have bodies made of that subtle, finer physical matter to which we give the term ï¿½ethericï¿½. We ourselves have bodies of dense physical, liquid physical, gaseous physical and the four etheric physical planes ï¿½ but we have not yet discovered the latter.

They have been demonstrated to exist by the great scientist and psychologist Wilhelm Reich, who was a colleague and one-time assistant of Freud. He died in an American prison in 1957. He was arrested for purporting to treat diseases with instruments which he claimed (correctly) attracted matter from the etheric planes, which he called orgone energy. He saw it as one vast plane of orgone energy, which he saw, rightly, as being everywhere in the universe, substanding the outer solid physical plane. Esotericists understand the etheric plane as four planes, becoming finer and finer as they go higher. The fourth etheric is just above gas, and is invisible unless you have etheric vision. The reality of this etheric energy, of what he called ï¿½orgone energyï¿½, was demonstrated palpably by Wilhelm Reich in various simple experiments. Nevertheless, he was arrested because he used instruments which he called the ï¿½orgone accumulatorï¿½, boxes which accumulated the etheric energy of some levels, usually the two lower levels, the fourth and the third etheric, to treat diseases including cancer and various other diseases. In America that was deemed illegal. The Food and Drug Administration arrested him, refused to allow him to prove his work, and he died in prison.

Unless one understands the reality of the etheric levels of energy as finer, subtler, levels of matter, one cannot begin to understand the UFO phenomenon, and one cannot understand the creation of crop circles ï¿½ because they are all related. The crop circles are created by people, mainly from Mars and Venus, with a few exceptions from other planets. The vast majority of them are Martian, some Venusian, and they are all over the world. Crop circles are mainly in the south of England, but they have been seen in America, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Peru ï¿½ all over the world to a greater or lesser degree. Our planet, like all planets, has a magnetic field; its magnetic energy travels in lines and criss-crosses, and where these lines cross is formed, eventually, a vortex, a force centre. The space people, in making the crop circles, are replicating on the dense-physical plane these magnetic vortices in our planetary magnetic field. So there is the planetary magnetic field on its own level, and then a physical plane counterpart of that, which is being replicated by the space people who are manning the UFOs, and creating the crop circles.

They have a great work in salvaging, in helping to restore the equilibrium of our planet, in particular to nullify to some extent ï¿½ within the karmic law ï¿½ the pollution of our planet. But for their work in purifying our atmosphere, mopping up with implosion devices the nuclear radiation which we pour into the atmosphere from our nuclear reactors and experimentation, this world would be infinitely more painful to live in

The reality and work of the Space Brothers
http://www.share-international.org/archives/UFOs/space-bros-reality.htm

Most people believe what they are told, that there is no life on Venus or the other planets, but the spaceships, the UFOs, have been seen by thousands of people for years, mainly from Mars and Venus, which are the nearest planets to us. The governments of the world for over 60 years have denied the existence of UFOs, which indeed in growing numbers are active in our skies. The governments have hoodwinked the public for their own reasons, probably mixed. They have sought to deny the existence of UFOs, flying saucers, whereas people who have seen them know that they are always present in our skies. The curious thing is that while denying the existence of UFOs they have sought to denigrate occupants of these ï¿½non-existentï¿½ craft as malicious, threatening the wellbeing of humanity.

What is the motive for this curious non-exposure of a tremendous event? The governments would say they want to avoid panic but beneath that is the unacknowledged fear of loss of control and power, which a welcoming approach to the Space Brothers would ensure. They know that if humanity knew that the spacecraft in our skies were not ï¿½aliensï¿½ but were here to aid and alleviate the suffering of humanity on this planet, and with their obviously far more advanced technology, people would demand that they are openly welcomed and their superior teaching made available to them.

Earth scientists deny the existence of any form of life on Mars and Venus and the other planets of the system. This is the result of their inadequate understanding of the true range of matter. These scientists acknowledge three planes ï¿½ solid, liquid and gaseous physical ï¿½ above which, they have not the technology to measure. Therefore they believe ï¿½moreï¿½ does not exist, yet the Masters and all students of esotericism know that there are four further states of matter above gas, the etheric planes of matter. It is on the etheric planes that can be found ï¿½lifeï¿½ on our sister planets, from Mars, on the lowest etheric level, up to extraordinarily advanced planets like Vulcan, Venus, Jupiter, Saturn, and planets like Mercury, Uranus and Neptune. Venus, the alter ego of Earth, is in the last of its seven ï¿½roundsï¿½ or incarnations (equivalent to our incarnational experiences), while Vulcan is completely perfected.

Spacecraft from these planets create the crop circles of which the largest number are seen in Wiltshire, the southwest of England, because Maitreya is in London. These crop circles are the ï¿½calling cardsï¿½ of the people who man the UFOs, to acknowledge ore asphyxiated. So we owe the Space Brothers a tremendous debt. Maitreya when asked will talk about the Space Brothers. They are our brothers and sisters of our own planetary system. We work together, the Hierarchy of all the planets work together in a kind of interplanetary parliament.

They are also engaged in a tremendous work of replicating on the surface of our planet the grid of our magnetic field. This is preparing the way for the ï¿½science of lightï¿½ which is the technology of the future. This will give us total, unlimited, safe power for all our needs. It is obvious, therefore, that far from being ï¿½alienï¿½, malicious monsters to be feared, as they have often been presented to the public, the Space Brothers are on a spiritual mission to help in every way possible within the Laws of Karma to maintain the stability and future health of Planet Earth.

You know you have hamburger when you have to add oil to the pan to cook it ... else, you are just eating a ground up slab of fat with a few bits of meat tossed in -- but hey, whatever makes a person happy. And, as always, don't let your children attend the Sullivan College of Technology & Design (Backwater U.).

They've hired at least one dufus who once claimed to have a PhD and lied about being arrested, and who knows, there may be more dufi there.

The proof that the "Space Brothers" either do not exist or are not benevolent is this: They have not put an end to the regime in Washington.

You understand that "Liberty Post" is "Freerepublic" in a modified wrapper. From Fresno, California, it is.

One year doesn't prove anything. 15 years, 30 years, qhatever is needed to define a trend. That's as dumb as saying an early snow means the planet is cooling.

Not capable of a big single quake. The early 19th century event was a the time; I suspect the Blackhawks were more of a bother.

You can feed a large family with grain and water or you can use that grain and water to produce enough beef to feed one person.

Meat eaters are the greedy selfish ones. Did it ever occur to you that you are 180 degrees opposed to reality? Do you ever wonder how you got there? Do you ever want to get right with Jesus?

Perhaps the strangest of [Philip] Anschutz's business relationships revolves around the late Michael Jackson. Anschutz's AEG was the prime promoter of what was to be the "King of Pop's" spectacular comeback tour.

According to Portfolio.com's Matt Haber, the deal was, "potentially worth hundreds of millions of dollars," as Anschutz's AEG Live, "would promote the 45 London Jackson events, ... at London's O2 arena, which ... [is] owned by AEG Worldwide. AEG was so committed to keeping the event on track, it paid Dr. Conrad Murray to act as the singer's personal physician. Dr. Murray is ... at the center of a police investigation into Jackson's overdose from the anesthetic Propofol."

AEG Live also partnered with Jackson's estate to release This is It, a movie put together from "more than 100 hours of footage of Jackson preparing for the concerts." Since its release, This Is It has become the highest grossing concert film in history, with over $250 million in worldwide sales and nearly $45 million in US DVD sales.

History Channel's 2011 UFO documentary "I know what I saw"
The documentary "I Know What I Saw" change the way we see the universe. Director, James Fox assembled some of the most credible UFO witnesses from around the world to testify at The National Press Club in Washington D.C.. They were: Air Force Generals, US astronauts, military pilots, commercial pilots, government and FAA officials from seven countries. Governor Fife Symington from Arizona stated said, it: "will challenge your reality".

Their accounts reveal a secret U.S. operation with the aim to confiscate and hoard substantiating evidence from close encounters to the extent that even Presidents have failed to get straight answers. The documentary exposes reasons behind government secrecy from those involved at the highest level.

It's spellbinding, especially when you understand that the majority of these former government officials who observed UFOs and were ordered not to talk about it. "Maitreya is awaiting the best timing to go public... We think... we can go on in the old ways... more competition, more greed... It is not so any longer; it does not work. If two-thirds of the world's population are living in poverty then the economic system does not work. If we think that they will go on without asking that it work for them, then we are sorely out of step with reality. Maitreya will make that clear." Benjamin Creme

Mor on UFOS & Space Brothers

"We've been ordered to work up a national debunking campaign,planting articles in magazines and arranging broadcasts to make UFO reports sound like Poppycock." (CIA report January 1953)

George Adamski was in touch with the space brothers & wrote some books about his encounters. Some of his books can be found online for free (see links below) Here's an excerpt of a conversation he had with one of them:

"...your world is not the lowest in development in the Universe. Yours is the least developed of those in our own system, but out beyond there are some worlds whose peoples have not yet grown to your standard, either socially or scientifically. Also, there are worlds where development has gone far in the field of science and remained low in the field of personal and social understanding, even though space has been conquered.

In our system, the peoples of all planets except your Earth are traveling space freely; some for short distances only, while others achieve great distances that take them to systems beyond our own.

Your understanding of life and the Universe is very limited. As a result, you have many false concepts about other worlds and the composition of the Universe; and so little knowledge of yourselves! But it also is true that there is a growing desire on the part of many on Earth who seek sincerely for greater understanding. We who have traveled the path you now are treading are willing to help and to give of our knowledge to all who will accept it.

The first fact your people must realize is that the inhabitants of other worlds are not fundamentally different from Earth men. The purpose of life on other worlds is basically the same as yours. Inherent in all mankind, however deeply buried it may be, is the yearning to rise to something higher. Your school system on Earth is, in a sense, patterned after the universal progress of life. For in your schools you progress from grade to grade and from school to school, toward a higher and fuller education. In the same way, man progresses from planet to planet, and from system to system toward an ever higher understanding and evolvement in universal growth and service.ï¿½

...ï¿½We could tell you much about the control of gravity, knowledge that is necessary both for safe leaving or approaching any planet. We would gladly give you this knowledge which has served us so well, except that you have not yet learned to live with one another in peace and brotherhood,for the welfare of all men alike, as we have on other worlds. If we revealed this power to you or to any Earth man and it became public knowledge, some of your people would quickly build ships for space traveling, mount guns upon them and go on a shooting spree in an attempt to conquer and take possession of other worlds.

You know that there are certain groups in your world who have already made claim for property rights and possession of your Moon for the purpose of using it as a military base. Many Earth scientists are hoping that, in the not too distant future, they will succeed in building space ships like ours for interplanetary travel. It is entirely possible that this will be done. But Earth men will not be allowed to come in numbers or to remain, until they have learned to embrace the all-inclusive life as lived by people of other worlds, rather than the selfish personal life as found on Earth today. And there will be much for you to learn about outer space, for it is on space itself that you will move.

Looking for a good value for dollor hand held two band.

The ones i had in mind.

Icom IC-91A

Yeasu XV-6R

Ease of use and dependability are key. Thus far I like the IC-91A best only because my other Icoms stuff never broke down or came defective from the box.

Comments and suggestions appreciated.

Thanx in advance.

Michael

Baofeng. $35 plus postage on eBay. Note that it is 2m or 440 not dual band (receive on one while transmitting on the other).

At that price why worry about repairs, buying new batteries? (look at the cost of an insert (batteries only) for an ICOM BP-8. Though if you want batteries they are pretty cheap.

Programing cables are around $8 plus postage and software is free.

Next step up is the Woxoun, which you can get with a US warranty for around $100 from Universal radio.

Both are very highly rated by users.

very intriguing suggestion... i'd gladly buy baofeng as a "toy" to tinker with, but i want somthing durable and dependable... i would not be confident about that thing holding up. also want somthing i dont have to struggle with learning how to use. my goal is to use it to work the local hams and to have somthing when the power goes out. i'm in north nj, and my power where i live has gone out for over three days twice in a two year period because our substation is by a river.
this last storm wiped out the power by me and it is still out in my town. this is four days now with no power. i dont even have a land line becuse I have fibre. cell phone repeaters crapped out too. i really need a good modern hand held that i dont have to fuss with too much.

Lots of hams I know are buying them to put in "bug out bags", keep one in each car, etc. They are small, cheap and run on rechargable lithium batteries so they don't run down when sitting on a shelf.

I don't have one myself but I have been told they are very easy to use and program.

BTW, the Woxoun is sold by Yaseu, but they changed the features slightly. :-)

Personally in that case I would look into older Motorola gear. Lots of parts, plenty of support in the ham community, and almost indestructible.

another one i am looking at is the Yaesu FT-60R only $140 and seems to be very popular and highly rated...

I've had a couple of Icom HT's and a couple of Yaesu ones and both were rock solid. Never liked the Kenwood ones, just because they seemed to be more difficult to operate than the others.

Just remember, NEVER EVER buy the Icom or Yaesu branded batteries. A total ripoff. Also, if you do a little checking, you can find the commercial radio versions of the accessories, like drop in chargers, for less than half what a ham store wants for the same item with a slightly different model number or color. The usual price for the Yaesu drop in charger for my present HT was about $60. The Ebay price for the commerical version? 14.95, and 5.00 shipping. They are exactly the same item, I think an A was added to the amateur version.

thanx... i will do some searching on the web for a few days before i make a final decision.

i think it i will be the 140 dollar Yaesu FT-60R or the $300 kenwood just gotta decide of if the TH-F6A is worth the extra $$$ over the FT-60R
TH-F6A

No . Man always hunted or domesticated wild animals in order to obtain meat . Has been like that for a million years . Are you aware that a chicken is actually related to a dinosaur ?

I have read somewhere before that the New Madrid Earthquake caused the Mississippi River to flow backwards.There are some Rivers in America that do flow Northward.The Saint Johns River (seven miles East of my half acre of land in Putnam County,Florida) flows North.Saint Johns River runs between Palatka and East Palatka.

Actually, I believe UFO's exist and are extraterrestrial. I just don't Band allocations and time zone conversions for the USA. Includes broadcast bands used outside the USA. For multi-use bands, primary usage is shown. Some stations operate outside official bands. Information is from Oct 2008 FCC rules and Sep 2009 NTIA manual, see Chapter 4 of:

http://www.ntia.doc.gov/osmhome/redbook/redbook.html

Frequencies are in kHz. Usual spacing in shortwave broadcast bands is 5 kHz. Frequencies above 10000 kHz tend to propagate better during the day; frequencies below 10000 kHz tend to propagate better at night.

Changes preceded by "|".

WARNINGS AND DISCLAIMERS

Connecting unapproved devices to phone lines may be illegal in your area. Telephone lines present a potential shock hazard. Do not use this antenna for transmitting. Use at your own risk.

INTRODUCTION

This article describes how to use a phone line as a shortwave receiving antenna. Performance will vary depending on the kind of phone line you have. Overhead lines usually make okay antennas, while underground lines | usually don't. Phone lines carrying DSL service may be unsuitable because | DSL operates over a wide spectrum. A phone line antenna will generally pick up more power line noise than a dedicated antenna, so don't expect to | use it for DX work. Nevertheless, I found that it outperformed the
| telescopic whip antennas built into many portables.

A reader sent in this suggestion: If you're concerned about connecting the phone line directly to the receiver, try wrapping the phone cord several times around the receiver's telescopic whip antenna instead. Performance may not be as good as a direct connection, but it will probably be better than the whip antenna by itself.

Someone else wrote asking about lightning protection. I haven't thought much about it because thunderstorms are rare in my area. Most phone lines have lightning arrestors on them where they enter the house, but the lightning arrestors may pass enough energy during a lightning strike damage a receiver. My suggestion is to disconnect the antenna when not in use if you experience frequent thunderstorms.

HOW TO DO IT

The simplest connection is a single capacitor between the phone line and receiver. The capacitor eliminates all phone line voltages, including | ringing, so that they will not harm the receiver. The capacitor should
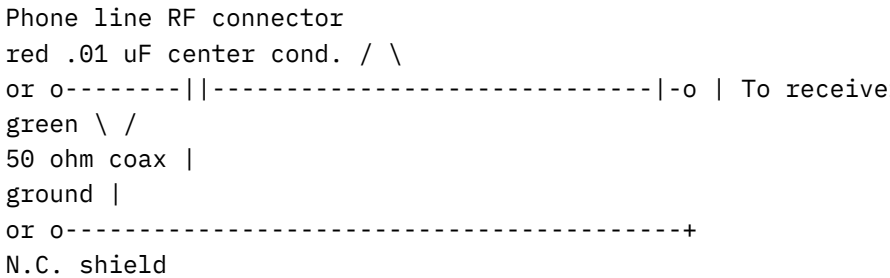
| be rated 250 volts or higher.



N.C. = no connect. I originally connected the phone line ground (yellow wire) to this terminal, but reception was better without it (if you do this, play it safe and put a .01 uF capacitor in series). If another ground is available, you can connect it to this terminal.

If you are picking up local AM or FM radio stations on the shortwave bands, it is likely that your receiver is overloaded. Inexpensive and portable receivers usually lack the filtering needed to eliminate this interference, but you can make your own filters. Filters can also be | purchased from shortwave dealers (see below for recommendations).

A high-pass filter can be used to remove signals below the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from local AM stations and presents a high impedance to the phone line at audio frequencies so that the phone line remains balanced.

A low-pass filter can be used to remove signals above the shortwave bands. It rejects interference from FM and TV stations, as well as VHF 2-way radio transmitters. If you use both filters, connect the output of the first filter to the input of the second (don't forget to connect their ground terminals together). It doesn't matter which filter is connected first.

These filters also work well with random wire antennas. Just connect the antenna in place of the phone line.

| RECOMMENDED FILTERS
| If you don't want to make your own filters, the following have good | performance, are well-built and affordable:
| Model 400 BCB interference filter (3.5 MHz highpass)

| Model 420 HF lowpass filter (30 MHz lowpass)
| http://www.iceradioproducts.com/filtersrf.html#3
| (scroll down a bit to see the model 420)
| If you have a random-wire antenna, the following unit will provide | impedance matching and lightning protection (connect antenna to 450-ohm | terminal):
| Model 182A beverage matching unit

FILTER PLANS

The original credit for the high-pass and low-pass filters goes to Paul Blumstein and John Shalamskas, respectively. Edited versions of their articles are included here:

Date: 09 Jan 91 00:54:08 GMT
From: paulb@harley.TTI.COM (Paul Blumstein)
Subject: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

The following ascii-schematic diagram is a high pass filter that will filter out Broadcast Band (MW) stations. I found it a great boon to my shortwave listening since local MW stations overload my ATS-803A front end & appear in SW, especially with a long antenna.

If you remember my antenna saga, I went from 50 feet to 150 feet & had overload problems causing me to cut back to 50 feet. (Even at 50 feet, I still have some MW interference). I took the advice of Gary Coffman and looked up filters in the ARRL Handbook. With the filter in place, I intend to try to increase my antenna length again.

Anywho, here is the filter, for interested parties.

--------||---+----||-----+----||-----------
} }
{ {
} }
-------------+-----------+-----------------

The outer capacitors are 1500 pf ceramic disks.
The inner capacitor is 820 pf ceramic disk.
The squiggly things are coils (two total). Each one is 2.7 uh.
(a close value will do).

From: bill@videovax.tv.tek.com (William K. McFadden)
Subject: Re: BC Band Hi-Pass Filter

I built the filter that Paul Blumstein posted recently and measured it on a gain-phase analyzer. Here are its characteristics:

100 kHz -120dB
500 kHz -68dB

1000 kHz -38dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2100 kHz -3dB

The source and load impedances were 50 ohms. Because the filter has five elements, the attenuation is 30dB per octave. The measurements confirmed this.

This filter seems to be a good compromise between interference attenuation and passband response. There is very little attenuation in the 120m band and above. It could use a little more attenuation at the upper end of MW, which could be done with more stages or a higher cutoff frequency. Alternatively, you could build two of these filters and put them in series. (Since two 1500pF capacitors in series are really 750pF, you could eliminate one cap.)

Just for fun, I put 470 ohms in series with the input to see how the filter performed with an antenna mismatch. The response was:

100 kHz -105dB
500 kHz -60dB
1000 kHz -35dB
1600 kHz -15dB
2300 kHz -3dB

These figures are normalized to the passband response of -15dB, which is due to the impedance mismatch between the source and load and would have been there without the filter. Hence, the filter works almost as well in spite of the mismatch, which is good news to those who use long-wire antennas.

Subject: Construction of filters for SW reception

Several people have asked for construction details of the filters I built for my DX-440.

The high-pass filter helped some, but in my location the VHF/UHF broadcasters are also causing problems. So, I dug out the ARRL handbook and chose a 7-element Chebyshev low-pass design that is -3 dB at 35 MHz, -20 dB at 43 MHz, and -50 dB at 64 MHz (all calculated; it works well in practice!)

LOW-PASS FILTER (Rejects FM, TV, etc.)

chassis ground

I had to do a little more improvising at this point. I used .33 uH instead of .36, and .66 uH instead of .42, but it works fine.

The 5-lug terminal strips were perfect for these circuits, since there are 4 lugs plus a grounded lug. All "ground" connections go to the lug that is mounted to the chassis, and the other 4 lugs are used for each of the connections on the signal line. One terminal strip is used per filter. Since both filters were necessary to clean up the hash, I am going to put them both into one box when I get the time.

signal in ------- filter 1 -------- filter 2 -------- signal out

There is no difference between ends. They are "bilateral" which means you can't possibly hook them up backwards. (In the above schematics, left and right ends are interchangeable.)

COIL WINDING

You can make the coils yourself using this formula:

L = 0.2 * B^2 * N^2 / (3B + 9A + 10C)

L is the inductance, in uH
A is the length of the coil, in inches
B is the mean diameter of the coil, in inches
C is the diameter of the wire, in inches
N is the number of turns

For small wire, you can assume C = 0.

Parts for the filters can be obtained from the following source:

Nobody said a 6 or 7 isn't major, the post said "potentially [most] dangerous in the lower 48". It just isn't. A wide and shallow 6 is as bad as a deep 7 (look at Christchurch). But the San Andreas and its asscociated faults are capable of high M7, close to M8 earthhquakes, as is the fault off the Oregon Coast.

If the water in the river stands still, and the riverbed moves 5', a lot of things may appear to happen. I see a lot of wild after the fact stories about the New Madrid swarm; the contemporaneous writings are less dramatic. I have been researching my ancestors from that area (KY, OH, IN, IL) and none of the stuff I'm reading even mentions it.

Remember when Safeway would put a pat of butter in the package with the steak? Like it doesn't have enough cholestorol already...

I go to Stater Brothers. Each store has its own butchers. My friend Don Bolles lives near Farmer John's in Vernon. Dancing pigs go in one end and happy sausage comes out the other.

We originally were scavengers and otherwise creatures of opportunity. We ate what we found.

If you want to get anthropological we should probably eat bread all winter and meat and fruit all summer.

Meat is not necessary to live. There is not enough grain to support 7 billion carnivores. If you eat meat 3 times a day someone else starves.

thanx for all the input... i ordered the FT-60R along with the Diamond SHR77CA antenna. the kenwood F6A does look great and i like the ssb and extra band, but those thigs are not blue chip features for me in a vhf/uhf ht. the FT-60R has piles of great reviews, appears to be easy to use and is half the price of the kenwood. probably the best over all value so far as i can see. most importantly, it is a substantial ht that i probably wont out grow any time soon.

- We originally were scavengers and otherwise
- creatures of opportunity. We ate what we found.

That is the Beauty of a Modern Supper Market :
You Can Find {Found} Everything There - Enjoy :o)
- If you want to get anthropological we should probably
- eat bread all winter and meat and fruit all summer.

-yes- Eat Naturally with the Seasons . . .

- Meat is not necessary to live.
- There is not enough grain to support 7 billion carnivores.

Very few Humans are Carnivores : The vast majority are Omnivores.

It is strange, bit it's the Tooth.(Truth) My little couch buddy doggy absolutely can not digest meat at all, not even a little bitty tiny piece of meat, she would puke it right back up.
Yeah, she is too fat, I done put her on a diet.

Doggy had to get a tooth pulled last March at Animal Medical Health, cost me about $454.00, including laser cleaning of her toofs.

Radiation of various types is one of the dangers when travelling in space . That will make anybody (even the Aliens) completely sterile .
P.S. The UFO pilots/passengers may have their own sperm banks ,stored in radiation-proof containers . Just a hypothetical observation .

That damn low pressure center may last for weeks as is slowly wanders around the south and then probably slowly heads north or northeast, dumping tons of rain as it goes. It seems like every time you turn around, parts of the country are getting record floods this year.

Look at the bright side. You can go fishing from your attic window.

I am not just reading what my ancestors wrote (which wasn't much except for a couple g-g-g-great grandfathers, one a clergy the other a sheriff). There is a lot about Lincoln and where he was born (about the same time as the swarm) but nothing to indicate it was that remarkable an event. The rivers were the superhighways of the day, and there are plenty of anecdotes about them.

The modern moonbat right considers pretty much anyone to the left of Himmler to be some kind of commie lib pinko. They make the charge quite frequently, and usually based on little or no evidence. It doesn't really mean anything anymore. Todays Republicans would consider a candidate with Reagan's agenda a borderline communist.

Keep moving, people. Nothing to see here.

Yes, you are correct that Bush, as well as Obama celebrated Muslim holidays. You did neglect to mentio that Bush celebrated the national day of prayer, but Obama seemed to think it uneccessary.

Re: ... Bush celebrated the national day of prayer, but Obama seemed to think it uneccessary (sic).

Yes, Bush did indeed celebrate the National Day of Prayer, and invited Protestant, Jewish, and Catholic clergy. No Muslim clergy were there on September 14, 2001, however.

http://www.americanrhetoric.com/speeches/gwbush911prayer&memorialaddress.htm

And further, Bush was the only president who regularly held a White House East Room event on the designated day.

But Obama did not ignore the day. He issued this proclamation as has virtually every president for decades:

http://nationaldayofprayer.org/news/2010-presidential-proclamation/2011-proclamation/

When you find a valid whining point, you can get back to us.

That's exactly where DxAce got the idea for HIS sperm bank. He makes daily deposits to the almost overflowing twenty thousand gallon container. He claims his collection of Cuhulin photos with the lacy red underwear keeps him contributing.

The lack of refrigeration in Holland, MI. is proving problematic. The ice cubes he has to dump in daily take a huge financial toll on his soft tissue injury settlement payments, with alcohol and pills using up the remainder cash.

He made some of the money back last year by selling what he claimed was 'egg nog' to his fellow gay militia members.

Since you made that charge based on absolutely no evidence, I assume

Liberty Net: August 27, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/09/liberty-net-august-27-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE ARRIVAL OF HURRICANE Irene didnï¿½t dampen the spirits of Liberty Net participants this week, and, surprisingly, the noise level was very low. Iï¿½d say that the conversations and debates were even more intense than the storm system that was swirling all around.

Here are some samples of the topics discussed this time on amateur radioï¿½s most exciting net:

ï¿½ The FCC just recently withdrew its so-called Fairness Doctrine regulations, even though they were ruled unconstitutional about 25 years ago. Does the withdrawal set the stage for new regulations along the same lines? (20 minutes)

ï¿½ Why has a new law been passed making it a federal crime for anyone who participated in the murder of Osama bin Laden to speak about it? And how dare they pretend that such an ex post facto law could possibly be constitutional? (25 minutes)

ï¿½ Itï¿½s insane to keep voting for the two major parties, which are owned by the same oligarchs ï¿½ and expect results that are any less disastrous than, or even noticeably different from, what we have now. (44 minutes)

ï¿½ Isnï¿½t it interesting that an elderly physician who is the very opposite of slick ï¿½ Ron Paul ï¿½ is beating almost all of the expensively coiffed and scripted bankersï¿½ candidates? (51 minutes)

ï¿½ Toppling Saddam Hussein ï¿½ for ostensible reasons that can only be described as hallucinatory, and real reasons that can only be described as Zionist ï¿½ was one of the worst foreign policy disasters in Americaï¿½s history. (1 hour 5 minutes)

ï¿½ Not only are the bankers snapping up US real estate at fire sale prices, but so are foreign governments, especially Chinaï¿½s. The Chinese long-term stealth strategy is to create their own municipalities with their own laws within the borders of the former United States. (1 hour 18 minutes)

ï¿½ School districts, according to a new edict from Washington, must achieve a 90% attendance level, so some of them have started literally paying cash rewards to Black students just for showing up. The more violent Blacks are also paid to attend ï¿½anger managementï¿½ classes. (1 hour 37 minutes)

ï¿½ By serving the ï¿½manifest destinyï¿½ of the state of Israel, America has almost totally destroyed the once-impressive wealth, heritage, and destiny of its own people. (2 hours 20 minutes)

Remember that you can receive the Liberty Net on an open frequency around 3950 kHz every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time (in recent weeks, the area above 3950 has been most commonly used, often 3980 kHz). You can also listen live on the Internet via N2SAG (who also includes a lively chat room during Net hours) or N2IRJ, or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week.

The complete net recording is posted at the very top of the right column (under ï¿½Liberty Net Audioï¿½) here on http://3950.net ï¿½ usually on the Sunday immediately following the net, so look for it there if youï¿½d like to listen. The articles and summaries (like this one, found in the center column) show up around a week later.

Once again, thanks to W1WCR and all participants for making this extraordinary net possible ï¿½ and please check in!

Propagation Forecast Bulletin 35 ARLP035
From Tad Cook, K7RA
Seattle, WA September 2, 2011
To all radio amateurs

ARLP035 Propagation de K7RA

The bulletin comes to you this week dispatched from another session of Camp Blues, this time in Portland, Oregon.

Sunspot activity rose again this week, with the average daily sunspot number up nearly 18 points to 83.6. Geomagnetic indices (both planetary and mid-latitude) were each down slightly. High sunspot number for the week was recorded on Wednesday, August 31, at 121. The last time the sunspot number was higher was on July 31 and August 1, at 128 and 130. Prior to that on July 18 it was 127.

If you check the Daily Sun image at http://www.spaceweather.com/, currently there are quite a number of spots on the Sun.

Predicted solar flux is 110 on September 2-5, 105 on September 6, 100 on September 7-8, 95, 90, 92, and 95 on September 9-12, 100 on September 13-15, then peaking at 105 on September 18-22.

The solar flux values for the next few days are slightly higher than the prediction in yesterday's ARRL Letter.

Predicted planetary A index is 5 on September 2, 8 on September 3-4, 5 on September 5-10, then 8, 12, and 8 on September 11-13, and 5 on September 14-17.

As always, the Czech Republic has a slightly different view, and the Geomagnetic Department of Geophysical Institute Prague says September 2 should be quiet, September 3 unsettled, September 4 quiet to unsettled, and September 5-8 quiet again.

Looking back at the three-month moving average of sunspot numbers, we now have the data for June through August, which gives us the three-month average centered on July. At 63, it is only slightly above the average centered on June, 61.5. The 3 month averages for this year, centered on January through July were 35.3, 55.7, 72.3, 74.4, 65.9, 61.5 and 63. For 2010 three-month averages, the high was 35.6, centered on October, and the low was 16.4, centered on May.

Utah State University has a Space Weather Center web site, where they have been posting frequency availability related to communications with the National Hurricane Center in Miami. You can see current and projected NVIS (Near Vertical Incidence Skywave) coverage across the Eastern Seaboard, as well as worldwide propagation maps for 75, 40 and 20 meters centered on Miami.

Take a look at http://spaceweather.usu.edu/htm/emergency-hf-communication-hurricane-irene.

Thanks to Thomas Otterbein, DG8FBV of Babenhausen Germany, for noticing that in the last bulletin we referred to the NOAA Preliminary Report and Forecast as a good source for smoothed sunspot numbers. That is true as a general statement, and you can see the past and predicted progress of the current sunspot cycle. But Thomas points out that this is not the smoothed sunspot number you should use with VOACAP propagation prediction software. He writes:

"For VOACAP, VOAAREA users and for users of prediction programs such as GUI which uses VOACAP the predicted SSN should be taken from:

ftp://ftp.ngdc.noaa.gov/STP/SOLAR_DATA/SUNSPOT_NUMBERS/sunspot.predict

"For this see also:

http://www.voacap.com/choosingssn.html."

For some nice photos of Thomas and his station, check http://www.qrz.com/db/dg8fbv (which now requires a login with a free account on that site), and also http://www.dg8fbv.de/.

We are only a few weeks away from the Autumnal Equinox in the Northern Hemisphere - September 23, 2011 - and the transition occurs at 0904z. We are transitioning out of Summer HF propagation to the more favorable Fall conditions. To get an idea of how much better Fall propagation is, try using W6ELprop or a similar propagation program (see http://www.qsl.net/w6elprop/) with some dates such as July 15 compared to September 23. You can have two of these running at the same time, to make it easy to switch back and forth for comparison.

I did one from the center of the contiguous 48 United States to Germany, and used a sunspot number of 120 (slightly optimistic) for both dates. The propagation is radically different between those two dates, and so much better for the Fall date. Give it a try.

Frank Donovan, W3LPL of Glenwood, Maryland pointed out that a new monthly prediction for the solar cycle was released by NASA in early August. You can read it at http://solarscience.msfc.nasa.gov/predict.shtml. But it isn't really a new forecast, as the only thing that changed was the date from July 1 to August 2, which was why we didn't mention it in the bulletin. But on September 1 a new forecast was released with a slightly revised prediction for the sunspot cycle maximum. Instead of the smoothed sunspot number peaking at 69 in June-July 2013, it is now predicted to peak at 70 in May 2013. These forecasts are not archived, and the same URL is used every month, so a personal record must be kept to note changes.

Frank also sent this note on September 1: "Trans-polar HF propagation has significantly picked up in the last week on 20, 17 and 15 meters. This is the usual seasonal change, as well as solar flux consistently above 100 and K indexes mostly 2 and below."

If you would like to make a comment or have a tip for our readers, email the author at, k7ra@arrl.net.

For more information concerning radio propagation, see the ARRL Technical Information Service web page at http://arrl.org/propagation-of-rf-signals. For an explanation of the numbers used in this bulletin, see http://arrl.org/the-sun-the-earth-the-ionosphere. An archive of past propagation bulletins is at http://arrl.org/w1aw-bulletins-archive-propagation. Find more good information and tutorials on propagation at http://myplace.frontier.com/~k9la/.

Monthly propagation charts between four USA regions and twelve overseas locations are at http://arrl.org/propagation.

Instructions for starting or ending email distribution of ARRL bulletins are at http://arrl.org/bulletins.

Sunspot numbers for August 25 through 31 were 97, 76, 63, 73, 66, 89, and 121, with a mean of 83.6. 10.7 cm flux was 104.2, 104.6, 103.8, 101, 101.2, 101.3, and 109, with a mean of 103.6. Estimated planetary A indices were 4, 3, 5, 6, 9, 4, and 2, with a mean of 4.7. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 4, 3, 3, 4, 7, 2, and 1, with a mean of 3.4.

Everything is related to money, whose influence is about to be tested globally.

Who is Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ?
Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan describes himself as a "kinky bisexual, into bondage, domination, and sado-masochism." As indicated in the CCRAA club newsletter, Morgan was impeached by members of the CCRAA radio club, in the summer of 2008. His impeachment was partly a result of the fact that he falsely accused seven men of child pandering and partly due to the fact that his actions brought disrepute onto the club.

Mark Morgan is under investigation for identity theft related to the unauthorized use of another man's name and email address. Information related to the incident was posted on the website on February 13 at 1:15 AM. Morgan has continuously posted false and defamatory information about various individuals for a number of years.

On February 13, it was also reported that nine (9) accounts used by Morgan to flood multiple newsgroups with annoyance messages had been removed for terms of service (TOS) violations.

Amazingly, after falsely reporting an individual for child sex pandering last year, Mark Morgan has now stolen the email address of the same FCC licensee, and, as of 10 AM eastern time on 2/13/09, Morgan had already posted 308 fraudulent messages. Here is a link to the fraudulent profile created by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ. The FBI and Law enforcement agencies in Michigan have been notified about this latest act of fraud perpetrated by Mark Morgan.

During the period prior to Morgan being impeached by the CCRAA radio club, the turbulence resulting from Morgan's fraud, malicious acts, and false accusations were acknowledged by club members to have cast a bad light on the organization. According to the club leadership: When Morgan began posting statements about the club on his private blog, leading to the possibility of the club being involved in a nasty civil suit, club members realized their mistake in electing him. After a short tenure as a club officer, Morgan was impeached by a margin of 11:1. Morgan's own vote was the only vote in his favor.

Like his friend Karol Madera, Morgan has a long history of involvement with the police, and the mental health industry. Law enforcement officials in Michigan have stated that Morgan was transported for psychiatric examination in 2004, to a hospital in Marquette, Michigan, under supervision of Sheriff's Deputies.

Morgan calls himself an ally of Karol Madera, VE7KFM.

In collusion with Madera, Morgan made malicious and false reports of child pandering to child protective service agencies, against 7 different men, in 7 different states.

Morgan was banned from qrz.com and hamisland.com for posting defamation about various individuals. Morgan has admitted he uses Google services (blogspot) to manage at least 3 defamatory blogs, using material fabricated by Karol Madera.

Morgan creates multiple identities, enabling him to flood the usenet service with thousands of nonsensical messages, in retaliation against those who have revealed his many lies and fabrications over the past 10 years. At last count, Morgan had posted well over 200,000 meaningless posts, using just a few of these multiple identities. Morgan admits he has rendered the service useless, citing "self defense." The removal of one of the many identities used by KB9RQZ on usenet is a victory in the effort to reduce the incessant flood of posts made by Morgan in an effort to deny others the ability to enjoy the usenet service.

Quotable Quotes ~ by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ

On reporting 7 men for child sex crimes:

"likewise you can prove I made a charge , you can't prove it was flase and malicious you would have to prove that I did not suspect you, indeed if I am mental ill as you suggest in post 2 then your task becomes even harder, since if I am nuts who knows what I believe"

"if you try and stop me either nothing will happen , or I will never even notice the effort or if you manage to inconvence my exercise of my rights I will look into what price I can extract from you."

"you also provoked mater by insisting your had the right to control who responded to your posts in RRAP"

"I made no flase report to CPS (child protective services) indeed you don't what a fasle report is it seems since I did and do and in fact I am more convinced than ever that you are likely the offer of the note claimignt o be willing to rent me the sexual service of that 9 yo but in any event I started nothing with you YOU started thing remeber you insisted I hated Ham radio because I said its response to Katrina could be imporved"

"when you atack me you invite response the only question is wether you have the gut to allow the reponse"

KB9RQZ, on shooting a teenaged boy (according to Houghton County Sheriff's Department, it never happened)

"at about 6:35 this morning I was awakened not by the expected return of my wife form the renfaire but the sound of motors. the motors belong to an ATV that had managed to get a rope onto my tower (30 foot wooden structure and was puling the tower down. O got sever round with the shotgun did not score a good hit but but the cops found blood on the treea dn the trails lead back to n rover river road after a bit where it stop and free tire marks (looks like one of the pickups that carry atv's around here).

the rope parted and no real damage to the anttenas was done although my masting needs work to make it stable again. have had loads of fun with the cops over the matter. I wonder what poor kid (I could see he was not more than say 16 ish) the nutjobs conned into making the attack and with what lie. sad realy."

February 2009 ~ Yet Another KB9RQZ Identity Banned from Google Groups

Another of the email adresses (kb9rqz@yahoo.com) used by Mark Morgan of Chassell, MI to flood usenet with thousands of nonsensical, useless messages, has been banned by Google groups for numerous violations of Google's terms of use, which include efforts to defame, abuse, harass, stalk, threaten or otherwise violate the legal rights (such as rights of privacy and publicity) of others; posting inappropriate, defamatory, infringing, obscene, or unlawful Content, and; restricting and inhibiting other users from using and enjoying the Service, through repeated flooding, spamming, and changing of thread titles.

The following is a repost about Morgan, made on Daniel Jeswald's blog, attributed to Steven Robeson:

Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ, is a very disturbed, admittedly deviant, and dishonest person who has been harrassing Amateur Radio operators and disrupting radio, and other forums, since at least 1997.

As part of his on-going fusillade, he has, at various times, insisted that he's a "colonel" in the US Army "chemical corps," further insisting that he's been "drafted," and further insisting that he was not allowed to "resign."

Never mind that he was only 8 years old when the draft was stopped in the 70's! He's since recanted the "Colonel" claim, saying he was only a Lieutenant, then claiming he was only a Sergeant at discharge -- under another name that the CIA knows about -- and approved.

Oh, and he was kicked out of the service due to his "nerves" according to Mr. Morgan. However, the HCSD and MSP both have him on record as being transported to Marquette General Hospital in 2004, due to "involuntary commitment for psychiatric evaluation."

Mr. Morgan has perpetuated a smear campaign against other members of various forums, going as far as post-editing comments, forging posts, and even trying to make "complaints" to the Civil Air Patrol Inspector General Corps and the FCC, etc., about perceived slights that have nothing to do with CAP or anything with any bearing on reality.

Recently, Morgan reported 7 different men to Child Protective Services in 7 different states. All this, because he has allied himself with yet another lunatic in Canada, known as Karol Madera, VE7KFM, who is as bad, or worse, than Mark Morgan.

This behavior is nothing more than an attempt by Morgan to "silence" those who would expose his foolishness and who refuse to tolerate his dishonesty in public forums.

Mr. Morgan has admitted to various acts of perversion and deceit, going as far as bragging about his use of lying, and his belief that deceit should be proactively taught to children as part of their upbringing. He describes himself as a kinky, bisexual, rabbi, who is into bondage, domination, and sado-masochism. He's been banned from almost every polite radio forum on the internet, but he still spams usenet groups, nearly every day, with nonsensical messages and libel.

Mr. Morgan has even gone as far as to create multiple screen names with which to spam usenet and other forums, including one screen name that invokes the name of my deceased daughter in order to perpetuate his demented "point of view".

Be aware. Be informed. Mark C. Morgan is NOT a person of reputable character, nor does he have an honest nature. In fact, not only was he transported to Marquette General Hospital for psychiatric evaluation and treatment in 2004, but he has a long history of similar treatment and harassment of others by various devious and underhanded means.

Mark Morgan has been investigated for the abuse of his elderly father, and for making false sos calls, as recently as December, 2008. There have even been rumors that Mark Morgan stole money from his elderly father, in order to move to Michigan, to avoid prosecution there, for crimes that have not been published, yet.

This summer (2008) Mr. Morgan was voted out of the CCRAA amateur radio club by a vote of 11:1. He was ejected from that club and banned from the websites qrz.com and ham island.net. Reports of dishonesty, slander, libel, and theft, follow Mark Morgan around the internet, like the stench from the local dump.

Here is a link to one of the screen names used to flood forums with unwanted posts and garbage of the type I previously mentioned. And here is another from IP addresses at Hughes satellite services, the latest IP addresses being 69.19.14.28 and 69.19.113.131

In summary, beware of Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan. Do not hesitate to contact Houghton County Sheriff's Department if he begins stalking you, or your family. Unfortunately, I have first hand experience with his stalking and harassment.

Mark Christopher Morgan can be reached for comment at kb9rqz@hughes.net or by phone at 906-523-4520 or via his postal address at Mark C. Morgan 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan 49931

Only fools, perhaps such as yourself, are ignorant enough where the relationship(s) between government crooks and the 3rd world conditions threatening us are not starkly apparent.

In final analysis, it is difficult to tell which is the most dangerous, fools like you without the abilities, mental acuity, and where with all to realize the disgusting and debasing bastards are ruining America, or the bastard crooks in our public servant offices which are carrying it out ...

But then, you probably wonder why all your neighbors hate you, and are hard pressed to figure out the solution to that simple problem -- KILL YOURSELF!

JS

We Need another Revolution!

One of my sisters, she just left from over here, she comes over here on Sundays for a few minutes to see if I am still alive and kickin, she brings me a few frozen food leftovers too.

Her son drives one of those big tour buses for a company in Nashville.Currently he is in Minneapolis, hauling Kid Rock and Sheryl Crow around the Country.

I'd been wondering what became of Sheryl after she left Las Vegas.

2> you must be talking about kb9rqz:

2> Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan describes
2> himself as a "kinky bisexual, into bondage, domination, and sado-
2> masochism." As indicated in the CCRAA club newsletter, Morgan was 2> impeached by members of the CCRAA radio club, in the summer of
2> His impeachment was partly a result of the fact that he falsely
2> accused seven men of child pandering and partly due to the fact that
2> his actions brought disrepute onto the club.

2> Mark Morgan is under investigation for identity theft related to the
2> unauthorized use of another man's name and email address.
Information
2> related to the incident was posted on the website on February 13 at 2> 1:15 AM. Morgan has continuously posted false and defamatory
2> information about various individuals for a number of years.

2> On February 13, it was also reported that nine (9) accounts used by 2> Morgan to flood multiple newsgroups with annoyance messages had
2> removed for terms of service (TOS) violations.

2> Amazingly, after falsely reporting an individual for child sex
2> pandering last year, Mark Morgan has now stolen the email address
of
2> the same FCC licensee, and, as of 10 AM eastern time on 2/13/09,
2> Morgan had already posted 308 fraudulent messages. Here is a link to
2> the fraudulent profile created by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ. The FBI and Law
2> enforcement agencies in Michigan have been notified about this latest

2> act of fraud perpetrated by Mark Morgan.

2> During the period prior to Morgan being impeached by the CCRAA
radio
2> club, the turbulence resulting from Morgan's fraud, malicious acts, 2> and false accusations were acknowledged by club members to have cast a
2> bad light on the organization. According to the club leadership:
When
2> Morgan began posting statements about the club on his private blog, 2> leading to the possibility of the club being involved in a nasty civil
2> suit, club members realized their mistake in electing him. After a
2> short tenure as a club officer, Morgan was impeached by a margin of
2> 11:1. Morgan's own vote was the only vote in his favor.

2> Like his friend Karol Madera, Morgan has a long history of involvement
2> with the police, and the mental health industry. Law enforcement
2> officials in Michigan have stated that Morgan was transported for 2> psychiatric examination in 2004, to a hospital in Marquette, Michigan,
2> under supervision of Sheriff's Deputies.

2> Morgan calls himself an ally of Karol Madera, VE7KFM.

2> In collusion with Madera, Morgan made malicious and false reports
of
2> child pandering to child protective service agencies, against 7
2> different men, in 7 different states.

2> Morgan was banned from qrz.com and hamisland.com for posting
2> defamation about various individuals. Morgan has admitted he uses
2> Google services (blogspot) to manage at least 3 defamatory blogs,
2> using material fabricated by Karol Madera.

2> Morgan creates multiple identities, enabling him to flood the usenet
2> service with thousands of nonsensical messages, in retaliation against 2> those who have revealed his many lies and fabrications over the past
2> 10 years. At last count, Morgan had posted well over 200,000
2> meaningless posts, using just a few of these multiple identities.
2> Morgan admits he has rendered the service useless, citing "self
2> defense." The removal of one of the many identities used by KB9RQZ on
2> usenet is a victory in the effort to reduce the incessant flood of
2> posts made by Morgan in an effort to deny others the ability to
2> the usenet service.

Ok, the second gate that will be opened only when the workplace apostles get on board is the gate of the transference of wealth. Now, I'll bet everyone in this room just about has heard prophecies that God is about to release huge amounts of wealth, to transfer the wealth from the Gentiles to His people. You've heard those prophecies, and I'll bet you apostles, you've probably given that prophecy more than once. Ok, what I'm saying is, everybody, these prophecies are not just by a bunch of flakes. These prophecies are the word of the Lord! See? And Chuck Pierce and I have worked, did some work on this, we can trace these prophecies to our best guess, to about 1992, ok? The authentic word of the Lord is that huge amounts of wealth are going to be released. And yet from 1992 to now, that's been twelve years, and they haven't been released. So again, my role, one of my roles is, not the only one, but one of my roles is to try to get the answers as to why, and I believe there are two answers to that. 'Cause God's not going to release this wealth down a black hole. He's going to release this wealth when it's properly cared for, see? And I believe one of the reasons he wouldn't release it, even though He has promised to do it, is because the government of the church wasn't in place, which it now is as of 2001, ok? So, we now have the apostles and prophets as foundation of the church, and that's in place. Then ok, if that's the reason, then why didn't we get it? Because we're still three years more, why didn't it come by now? The second one is we need the workplace, the apostles in the workplace, in place. Now, the reason we do is because there are four links in the chain of the transfer of Kingdom wealth. The links are: providers, managers, distributors, and field marshals. And the objective of the whole thing is to get the wealth in the hands of the field marshals who are out there winning souls, planting churches, feeding the poor and transforming society. The field marshals are there. The providers are there. That's the link number one. God wouldn't even announce that there was wealth if the wealth wasn't there. The providers are there. The field marshals are there. The distributors are there, I don't have time to explain them but the distributors are in place. They're not activated. They will only be fully activated when the money's there, because the money hasn't come yet either, ok? But the second link in the chain, the managers, that is where workplace apostles come in. There are people in the kingdom of God, in the body of Christ, who have the skills to manage large amounts of money. Now I'm not talking about tens of millions, few millions, I'm talking about hundreds of millions and billions of dollars because this is the scope on which these prophecies are based. And there are people who manage those, the managers exist, we have people in the body of Christ who know how to handle those funds; however, they’re not connected with the other three links. And that is what needs to happen and will happen so that the prophecies about the transfer of wealth will be… that gate of transference of wealth, will be opened. Look what it says in Isaiah 60:11. Don’t bother looking in your Bibles, but I just want you to write down Isaiah 60:11. “Therefore your gates shall be opened continually. They shall not be shut day or night that men might bring to you the wealth of the Gentiles.” This gate will be opened when we understand about the church in the workplace, that the church has a government, that it takes a government to overthrow a government, and when we understand this, if we renew our minds, if we embrace this paradigm shift, if we see, if we hear what the spirit is saying to the churches, if we recognize ministry in the extended church and government in the extended church, the revival we’ve been praying for is just around the corner. We will see it.

Who is Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ?
Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan describes himself as a "kinky bisexual, into bondage, domination, and sado-masochism." As indicated in the CCRAA club newsletter, Morgan was impeached by members of the CCRAA radio club, in the summer of 2008. His impeachment was partly a result of the fact that he falsely accused seven men of child pandering and partly due to the fact that his actions brought disrepute onto the club.

Mark Morgan is under investigation for identity theft related to the unauthorized use of another man's name and email address. Information related to the incident was posted on the website on February 13 at 1:15 AM. Morgan has continuously posted false and defamatory information about various individuals for a number of years.

On February 13, it was also reported that nine (9) accounts used by Morgan to flood multiple newsgroups with annoyance messages had been removed for terms of service (TOS) violations.

Amazingly, after falsely reporting an individual for child sex pandering last year, Mark Morgan has now stolen the email address of the same FCC licensee, and, as of 10 AM eastern time on 2/13/09, Morgan had already posted 308 fraudulent messages. Here is a link to the fraudulent profile created by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ. The FBI and Law enforcement agencies in Michigan have been notified about this latest act of fraud perpetrated by Mark Morgan.

During the period prior to Morgan being impeached by the CCRAA radio club, the turbulence resulting from Morgan's fraud, malicious acts, and false accusations were acknowledged by club members to have cast a bad light on the organization. According to the club leadership: When Morgan began posting statements about the club on his private blog, leading to the possibility of the club being involved in a nasty civil suit, club members realized their mistake in electing him. After a short tenure as a club officer, Morgan was impeached by a margin of 11:1. Morgan's own vote was the only vote in his favor.

Like his friend Karol Madera, Morgan has a long history of involvement with the police, and the mental health industry. Law enforcement officials in Michigan have stated that Morgan was transported for psychiatric examination in 2004, to a hospital in Marquette, Michigan, under supervision of Sheriff's Deputies.

Morgan calls himself an ally of Karol Madera, VE7KFM.

In collusion with Madera, Morgan made malicious and false reports of child pandering to child protective service agencies, against 7 different men, in 7 different states.

Morgan was banned from qrz.com and hamisland.com for posting defamation about various individuals. Morgan has admitted he uses Google services (blogspot) to manage at least 3 defamatory blogs, using material fabricated by Karol Madera.

Morgan creates multiple identities, enabling him to flood the usenet service with thousands of nonsensical messages, in retaliation against those who have revealed his many lies and fabrications over the past 10 years. At last count, Morgan had posted well over 200,000 meaningless posts, using just a few of these multiple identities. Morgan admits he has rendered the service useless, citing "self defense." The removal of one of the many identities used by KB9RQZ on usenet is a victory in the effort to reduce the incessant flood of posts made by Morgan in an effort to deny others the ability to enjoy the usenet service.

Quotable Quotes ~ by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ

On reporting 7 men for child sex crimes:

"likewise you can prove I made a charge , you can't prove it was flase and malicious you would have to prove that I did not suspect you, indeed if I am mental ill as you suggest in post 2 then your task becomes even harder, since if I am nuts who knows what I believe"

"if you try and stop me either nothing will happen , or I will never even notice the effort or if you manage to inconvence my exercise of my rights I will look into what price I can extract from you."

"you also provoked mater by insisting your had the right to control who responded to your posts in RRAP"

"I made no flase report to CPS (child protective services) indeed you don't what a fasle report is it seems since I did and do and in fact I am more convinced than ever that you are likely the offer of the note claimignt o be willing to rent me the sexual service of that 9 yo but in any event I started nothing with you YOU started thing remeber you insisted I hated Ham radio because I said its response to Katrina could be imporved"

"when you atack me you invite response the only question is wether you have the gut to allow the reponse"

KB9RQZ, on shooting a teenaged boy (according to Houghton County Sheriff's Department, it never happened)

"at about 6:35 this morning I was awakened not by the expected return of my wife form the renfaire but the sound of motors. the motors belong to an ATV that had managed to get a rope onto my tower (30 foot wooden structure and was puling the tower down. O got sever round with the shotgun did not score a good hit but but the cops found blood on the treea dn the trails lead back to n rover river road after a bit where it stop and free tire marks (looks like one of the pickups that carry atv's around here).

the rope parted and no real damage to the anttenas was done although my masting needs work to make it stable again. have had loads of fun with the cops over the matter. I wonder what poor kid (I could see he was not more than say 16 ish) the nutjobs conned into making the attack and with what lie. sad realy."

February 2009 ~ Yet Another KB9RQZ Identity Banned from Google Groups

Another of the email adresses (kb9rqz@yahoo.com) used by Mark Morgan of Chassell, MI to flood usenet with thousands of nonsensical, useless messages, has been banned by Google groups for numerous violations of Google's terms of use, which include efforts to defame, abuse, harass, stalk, threaten or otherwise violate the legal rights (such as rights of privacy and publicity) of others; posting inappropriate, defamatory, infringing, obscene, or unlawful Content, and; restricting and inhibiting other users from using and enjoying the Service, through repeated flooding, spamming, and changing of thread titles.

The following is a repost about Morgan, made on Daniel Jeswald's blog, attributed to Steven Robeson:

Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ, is a very disturbed, admittedly deviant, and dishonest person who has been harrassing Amateur Radio operators and disrupting radio, and other forums, since at least 1997.

As part of his on-going fusillade, he has, at various times, insisted that he's a "colonel" in the US Army "chemical corps," further insisting that he's been "drafted," and further insisting that he was not allowed to "resign."

Never mind that he was only 8 years old when the draft was stopped in the 70's! He's since recanted the "Colonel" claim, saying he was only a Lieutenant, then claiming he was only a Sergeant at discharge -- under another name that the CIA knows about -- and approved.

Oh, and he was kicked out of the service due to his "nerves" according to Mr. Morgan. However, the HCSD and MSP both have him on record as being transported to Marquette General Hospital in 2004, due to "involuntary commitment for psychiatric evaluation."

Mr. Morgan has perpetuated a smear campaign against other members of various forums, going as far as post-editing comments, forging posts, and even trying to make "complaints" to the Civil Air Patrol Inspector General Corps and the FCC, etc., about perceived slights that have nothing to do with CAP or anything with any bearing on reality.

Recently, Morgan reported 7 different men to Child Protective Services in 7 different states. All this, because he has allied himself with yet another lunatic in Canada, known as Karol Madera, VE7KFM, who is as bad, or worse, than Mark Morgan.

This behavior is nothing more than an attempt by Morgan to "silence" those who would expose his foolishness and who refuse to tolerate his dishonesty in public forums.

Mr. Morgan has admitted to various acts of perversion and deceit, going as far as bragging about his use of lying, and his belief that deceit should be proactively taught to children as part of their upbringing. He describes himself as a kinky, bisexual, rabbi, who is into bondage, domination, and sado-masochism. He's been banned from almost every polite radio forum on the internet, but he still spams usenet groups, nearly every day, with nonsensical messages and libel.

Mr. Morgan has even gone as far as to create multiple screen names with which to spam usenet and other forums, including one screen name that invokes the name of my deceased daughter in order to perpetuate his demented "point of view".

Be aware. Be informed. Mark C. Morgan is NOT a person of reputable character, nor does he have an honest nature. In fact, not only was he transported to Marquette General Hospital for psychiatric evaluation and treatment in 2004, but he has a long history of similar treatment and harassment of others by various devious and underhanded means.

Mark Morgan has been investigated for the abuse of his elderly father, and for making false sos calls, as recently as December, 2008. There have even been rumors that Mark Morgan stole money from his elderly father, in order to move to Michigan, to avoid prosecution there, for crimes that have not been published, yet.

This summer (2008) Mr. Morgan was voted out of the CCRAA amateur radio club by a vote of 11:1. He was ejected from that club and banned from the websites qrz.com and ham island.net. Reports of dishonesty, slander, libel, and theft, follow Mark Morgan around the internet, like the stench from the local dump.

Here is a link to one of the screen names used to flood forums with unwanted posts and garbage of the type I previously mentioned. And here is another from IP addresses at Hughes satellite services, the latest IP addresses being 69.19.14.28 and 69.19.113.131

In summary, beware of Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan. Do not hesitate to contact Houghton County Sheriff's Department if he begins stalking you, or your family.

Unfortunately, I have first hand experience with his stalking and harassment.

Mark Christopher Morgan can be reached for comment at kb9rqz@hughes.net or by phone at 906-523-4520 or via his postal address at Mark C. Morgan 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan 49931

What do model trains and ham ops have in common?

Are model trains and ham gear homoerotic?

Do they like each other and hold conventions together?

Has there ever been a model train and ham radio Joke Off?

Is there a YouTube equivalent to this but for Ham Ops? If so is it like "Perverted Justice" and "To Catch a Predator", or does it just have the NBC Dateline crew and correspondent Chris Hansen holding a big mic?

20> you must be talking about kb9rqz:

20> Who is Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ?
20> Mark C. Morgan of 17366 North River Road, Tapiola, Michigan
describes
20> himself as a "kinky bisexual, into bondage, domination, and sado-20> masochism." As indicated in the CCRAA club newsletter, Morgan was
20> His impeachment was partly a result of the fact that he falsely 20> accused seven men of child pandering and partly due to the fact
that
20> his actions brought disrepute onto the club.

the 20> unauthorized use of another man's name and email address.
Information
20> related to the incident was posted on the website on February 13 at 20> 1:15 AM. Morgan has continuously posted false and defamatory
20> information about various individuals for a number of years.

20> On February 13, it was also reported that nine (9) accounts used by
20> removed for terms of service (TOS) violations.

20> Amazingly, after falsely reporting an individual for child sex
20> the same FCC licensee, and, as of 10 AM eastern time on 2/13/09,
to 20> the fraudulent profile created by Mark Morgan, KB9RQZ. The FBI and

Law
20> enforcement agencies in Michigan have been notified about this latest
20> act of fraud perpetrated by Mark Morgan.

radio
20> club, the turbulence resulting from Morgan's fraud, malicious acts, 20> and false accusations were acknowledged by club members to have cast a 20> bad light on the organization. According to the club leadership:
When
20> Morgan began posting statements about the club on his private blog, 20> leading to the possibility of the club being involved in a nasty civil
20> short tenure as a club officer, Morgan was impeached by a margin
20> 11:1. Morgan's own vote was the only vote in his favor.

involvement
20> with the police, and the mental health industry. Law enforcement 20> officials in Michigan have stated that Morgan was transported for 20> psychiatric examination in 2004, to a hospital in Marquette, Michigan,
20> under supervision of Sheriff's Deputies.

20> Morgan calls himself an ally of Karol Madera, VE7KFM.

20> In collusion with Madera, Morgan made malicious and false reports
20> child pandering to child protective service agencies, against 7 20> different men, in 7 different states.

20> Morgan was banned from qrz.com and hamisland.com for posting
20> defamation about various individuals. Morgan has admitted he uses
20> Google services (blogspot) to manage at least 3 defamatory blogs,
20> using material fabricated by Karol Madera.

usenet
20> service with thousands of nonsensical messages, in retaliation against 20> those who have revealed his many lies and fabrications over the past
20> 10 years. At last count, Morgan had posted well over 200,000
20> meaningless posts, using just a few of these multiple identities.
20> Morgan admits he has rendered the service useless, citing "self 20> defense." The removal of one of the many identities used by KB9RQZ

20> usenet is a victory in the effort to reduce the incessant flood of

The "get kelp'er" is obviously a demented homosexual, most probably a screaming queen who attempts to hide it in public.

I googled kelp and find the only reference which seems fitting to the bozos insane and inane comments is the fact kelp is used for treating hemorrhoids. Since the "kelp poster" has put so much importance on kelp, you can only imagine what "dark void" his respect for kelp has come from ...

However, it must have worked for him, and still is, or it would seems unlikely that he keeps recommending it to others -- thinking they suffer the same medical problems his homosexual lifestyle has given to him ...

However, one can draw a logical and accurate conclusion about one aspect of his fondness for kelp, it doesn't work for mental illness, else we would have expected to have seen some improvement in his condition over the large expanse of time he has been afflicted.

JS

We have been informed by the readers of rec.radio.shortwave that a | recent (2008) attempt to update these documents and post them (or links | to them) at regular intervals, has since been abandoned, so the project | is once again open to a sincere and motivated volunteer. |

Are those short shorts called daisy dukes?
Those boots look like something the Catwoman wears.

They are coming out with new shampoos all the time.I use soap and water, when I take a bath every day.
JT, on his Super Talk Missy Sippy radio show, this morning he said he paid five dollars for a can of deodorant.I don't use any deodorant.Those deodorants are only effective for about ten or fifteen minutes anyway.

WWIII was from 1946-to-1990. A thing of the past . 'The Cold War' .
Right now (2011) we are living in a post WWIII environment . See "Operation Unthinkable" in case of doubt.

I see you've taken a cue from Tholen, Markie. You do that, you know.
You don't have an original thought in that over sized melon head of yours. You're always picking up and using other peoples quotes and sayings. As stated, you don't have an original thought.

It doesn't have have anything to do with shortwave or kelp. It has everything to do with the fact you're a sexual deviant.You are the one who posted to a usenet group that a 17 year old boy fucked you up the ass. You posted to a usenet group about licking your shit off of some guy's cock. You spread your filth in these news groups and every where you go on the internet. You're a piece of shit Markie and your family

While John Stewart agrees with you about Hoffa's words he at least gave them in context. He also included the "Don't retreat, reload".
Did you complain about the heavy use of the Jefferson quote, "The tree of Liberty needs to be watered from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants" which actually was a call to violence rather than to vote?

I see you've taken a cue from Tholen, Markie. You do that, you know.
You don't have an original thought in that over sized melon head of yours. You're always picking up and using other peoples quotes and sayings. As stated, you don't have an original thought.

It doesn't have have anything to do with shortwave or kelp. It has everything to do with the fact you're a sexual deviant.You are the one who posted to a usenet group that a 17 year old boy fucked you up the
ass. You posted to a usenet group about licking your shit off of some guy's cock. You spread your filth in these news groups and every where you go on the internet. You're a piece of shit Markie and your family is a freak show.

Deodorant is alcohol with a soapy carrier and some perfume.
Antiperspirant clogs your pores with metallic salts.

I use the same Mennen or Old Spice I've used for 50 years, depending on what's cheaper at WalMart.

You're too literal. I meant as in "no man's land" areas, implying there is classic urban low level warfare in Chicago, same as any other big city in the land of the cheap.

I don't understand the first question.

Every mainstream news outlet is critical of Obama. Talk Radio is not news. It is pure entertainment and not to be taken seriously. Other than the ATF sting that got out of control, I can't think of anything I heard first on the Reactionary Emotional Media.

I use Mennen roll on underarm deodorant ONLY on Thanksgiving day and also on Christmas day when I go to my sisters and brother in laws house for dinner.

One of the purposes of underarm hair is to act as a wick to wick away perspiration.(Tar and Feathers, the Feathers are the Wicks, but that's another story) But those wimmins are always shaving off their underarm hair.
Sheet, I prefer hairy wimmins.

German Unemployment Declined in January to Lowest Since 1992

As unemployment lines shorten and the population shrinks, industrial companies face a skilled labor shortage that may restrain growth. Photographer: Michele Tantussi/Bloomberg

German unemployment fell to an 18- year low in January, stoking concerns that the worldoΩ½s second- largest exporter is running short of skilled labor after the fastest economic expansion since reunification in 1990.

The number of people out of work declined a seasonally adjusted 13,000 to 3.135 million, the lowest since November 1992, the Nuremberg-based Federal Labor Agency said today. Economists forecast a drop of 10,000, according to the median of 32 estimates in he adjusted jobless rate fell to 7.4 percent from 7.5 percent. a Bloomberg News survey. T

While The People certainly have the right, and the authority to claim Enough is Enough, and make it stick...

They are, as a rule, not that committed. Remember that only about 30% of colonists supported the Revolution. It was the commitment of those 30% that got the job done. Had there been a primary system in the colonies, you'd be speaking with a Yorkshire accent and enjoying the old age benefits of British dentistry.

Today, with, now, two generations of Americans for whom 'nostalgia' extends no further than breakfast, the probability of finding a sufficient population so committed is, to be generous, slim.

And while I like what Ron Paul has to say, quite a lot, actually, I hold no hope that he will survive a primary system that's designed to maintain the status quo by drowning out the voice of the committed few.

One way to get that voice back to strength, would be to scap the primary system, and go back to a convention system in which the committed can prevail in launching a campaign that is truly revolutionary.

There is little political will for this.

So, before you begin declaring victory in the name of the people, get out and start generating interest in the uncommitted for Ron Paul's pronouncements. Educate the uninterested mass in the value of his thinking. Or to bring a marketing term into the discussion: Generate Demand.

Declaring victory in a USENet newsgroup, is not going to reach enough voters to fund a decent yard sign printing. Much less carry victory in a general election.

1967. Monica Pignotti: Why FSU Fired Her

Monica Pignotti has sealed her fate.

There will be NO compliance with the demands in the statement on her website.

Many of the signatories to her strident manifesto, such as Bruce Thyer, have vested interests in concealing the truth about her.

Efforts to disseminate the TRUTH about her will continue, unabated.

In addition, the institutions whose faculty members have been foolish enough to sign this document will be contacted and retractions will be demanded. If these people wish to speak out, let them speak on their own.

Some facts about Monica Pignotti:

1) She dropped out of college to join Scientology. She spent years in this crazy cult, and rose to the highest levels, containing scientifically unsound beliefs about alien warlords and the atom bombing of volcanos. While in Scientology, Monica Pignotti became romantically involved with Quentin Hubbard, one of the children of Scientology founder, L. Ron Hubbard.

2) After leaving Scientology, Monica Pignotti became a devotee of Roger Callahan and his bizarre therapies, Thought Field Therapy and Energy Therapy. These systems claim to heal by tapping the body and at the most advanced levels, diagnosis is performed over the phone.

Pignotti stopped practicing energy therapy and used her inside knowledge to criticize it.

3) Pignotti entered academia. She was dismissed from a teaching position at Florida State University (FSU) for several reasons. First, she made obscene sexual propositions to faculty members. Second, many students complained that she wasted classroom time with anecdotes about time travel, Scientology, Roger Callahan, being single, and her dislike of geology.

4) Monica Pignotti spent several years aligned with a fringe medical group. The head of this group, Larry W. Sarner of Loveland, CO, has bachelor's degrees in political science and mathematics, and is unqualified to evaluate psychological interventions. Sarner bilked lenders and investors out of several million dollars on a scheme to develop and deploy voting machines. Even though Pignotti, for whatever reason, has parted company with Sarner, she continues to insist that his voting machines worked.

5) Pignotti applied for a position at New York University (NYU). She did not get it. She concocted a fantastic story about how her personal information was compromised, and she demanded that NYU conduct a full investigation.
NYU refused, and has stated, publicly, that they are glad they did not hire her.

6) Pignotti considered applying for a position at Brigham Young University (BYU) which would have required adherence to the BYU honor code. Pignotti wrote a scathing blog post denouncing the Mormon faith.

7) Pignotti associates with violent criminals. As an example, Robert Clark, who uses the pseudonym ‘henri’ and who has been convicted of making bomb threats against both churches and weather stations.

You always have the informed on one hand and the idiots on the other. The idiots will always put themselves out of work and they gripe about having to starve to death. Pay all they tax dollars to public servants so they can live in splendor, and then wonder why they are going with out medical care, etc., etc.

If you worry about the idiots, you are likely to go down in flames with them, while they are preoccupied with a football game on TV.

But, back to reality, the people in that group viewing the debate and hearing the prospective candidates seen that Ron Paul is head and shoulders above the rest, indeed, there isn't a second choice, except for the idiots you seem to want to focus on.

Yes, "The Pot Monetary System."

Didn't super dave already propose that, 1/4 OZ of Mendocino Primo will get you a hooker for 1/2 hr, or something like that? And, a full OZ will get you a room on Skidrow for few nights ... I'd need a exchange rate chart to give you a quote on what that would be in gold ... I'll get back to you.

That's the day the Phone Company and the CIA overthrew Salvador Allende. They were perfecting a technique now being used on President Obama.

The "Chile Miracle" is falling apart, yet Herman Cain invokes it in debate, as a viable path forward (he neglects to mention the bloody coup and the disappearances).

Unfortunately, Americans are too insulated from their actions to even know they have been turning over governments all over the world for 120 years. We are like stupid Germans.

Originally, so farmers could smooth their incomes (agricultural commodities) and transportation companies and manufacturers could somewhat control expenses going forward (metals and fuel), there was a rational commodities futures trading system. Deregulation has turned it into Kentucky night at a Casino, with free meth crystal in the drinking fountains.

Propagation Forecast Bulletin 36 ARLP036
From Tad Cook, K7RA
Seattle, WA September 9, 2011
To all radio amateurs

SB PROP ARL ARLP036
ARLP036 Propagation de K7RA

Solar indicators rose again this week, with average daily sunspot numbers increasing nearly 21 points to 104.3, and average daily solar flux up nearly 12 points to 115.5. Geomagnetic numbers were up as well, with the most active geomagnetic day occurring on September 3.

We are just two weeks away from the Autumnal Equinox in the Northern Hemisphere. Look for increasing enhanced HF conditions as a result, as we move from Summer conditions with its associated atmospheric noise and daytime absorption.

The latest prediction from NOAA/USAF has solar flux at 105 for September 9-10, 100 on September 11, 95 on September 12-13, 100 on September 14-15, 105 and 103 on September 16-17, and 105 on September 18-22. Planetary A index is predicted at 5 on September 9, 18, 15, 10 and 8 on September 10-13, 5 on September 14-17, 7 on September 18-19, and 5 on September 20-23.

Geophysical Institute Prague predicts minor storm for September 9-10, active conditions September 11, unsettled September 12, quiet to unsettled September 13, and quiet on September 14-15.

Both the NOAA and Prague predictions for September 9-10 are probably based on a series of recent solar flares beginning September 6 from sunspot group 1283. These should deliver minor disruptions to Earth on September 9-11, because the energy isn't squarely aimed toward Earth. In another few days 1283 will be over our Sun's western limb and outside the area of influence for Earth. An eruption from a sunspot squarely in the center of the solar image has the potential for the greatest impact here. 1283 was in the center of the solar disc several days ago, but no longer.

See the web site
http://www.space.com/12882-sun-solar-flares-faithful-sunspot.html

for an interesting article about sunspot group 1283. An eruption from 1283 can be seen at http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/sunearth/news/gallery/20110907-x1.8flare.html. Note you can also select a high resolution image from that page.

Check http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=EI6sP3SVnOU for an interesting video commentary on 1283. Note that in the lower right you can select a high definition image. Pay no attention to the comments below the video regarding earthquakes, typhoons and planetary alignment. Anyone can post these, and they are not based on any sound science.

Max White, M0VNG of Worcester England sent in an article about the Solar Dynamics Observatory and how they are using it to study solar flares. Read it at, http://www.nasa.gov/mission_pages/sdo/news/late-phase-flares.html.

Sunspot numbers for September 1 through 7 were 119, 103, 139, 114, 102, 93, and 60, with a mean of 104.3. 10.7 cm flux was 111.8, 115.4, 118.7, 119.4, 118.7, 111.5, and 112.8, with a mean of 115.5. Estimated planetary A indices were 3, 3, 13, 8, 6, 7, and 6, with a mean of 6.6. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 1, 1, 9, 7, 4, 5, and 5, with a mean of 4.6.

The Democrats are beginning to see themselves destruct from within,like the sun worshippers have infested Governments,education and religon they preach specific massages to the herd and like they are taking the truther sites apart with misimformation,these tatics have a looooooong succes rate.

They like timing their catostropic events with biblical scripture to keep the fear of god alive! It is their best weapon of choice to keep the herd of slaves inline and "Bill Gates Wish"s the use of medication will help depopulate the Earth to a perpetual balance getting rid of all the extra CO2

Liberty Net: September 3, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/09/liberty-net-september-3-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE LIBERTY NET is unique. There is no other net on the amateur radio airwaves where participants discuss the news that the billionairesï¿½ media refuse to cover, and which deals with the fundamental issues that will determine the future of our families ï¿½ and our civilization ï¿½ in the coming years.

Here are some samples of the ideas discussed this time on amateur radioï¿½s longest-running discussion net:

ï¿½ How can the regime in Washington ï¿½ which facilitates the debasement and counterfeiting of our money on an incalculable scale ï¿½ dare to prosecute a man who did nothing more than sell honest, pure silver coins, which didnï¿½t even faintly resemble the fake bankersï¿½ tokens we are forced to use? And how dare they charge ï¿½ and imprison ï¿½ him for ï¿½terrorismï¿½ for doing so? (44 minutes)

ï¿½ After bailing out the bankers with trillions of dollars, our rulers are now suing those very same bankers for billions, for their alleged role in the housing market meltdown. Is this just a prearranged deal to make it look like the regime is ï¿½doing somethingï¿½? And will the taxpayers bail out the banks again so they can pay any damages assessed? (1 hour 14 minutes)

ï¿½ The American formula for prosperity: Borrow counterfeit money, spend it as fast as you can, then borrow more; repeat infinitely. Why isnï¿½t it working? (1 hour 26 minutes)

ï¿½ Very few Americans know how utterly cynical and immoral the regime in Washington is. Of those few, only a fraction care. (1 hour 35 minutes)

ï¿½ The criminals in Washington are deliberately targeting White communities, including many in Maine and New Hampshire, for the settlement of Somali invaders. (1 hour 44 minutes)

ï¿½ Itï¿½s no secret. Israel now openly brags that they have the US Congress ï¿½in their pocket.ï¿½ (2 hours 11 minutes)

ï¿½ Why is the Washington regime providing zero-interest money to bankers who are billionaires? Why canï¿½t the same zero-interest money be provided directly to the people? (2 hours 30 minutes)

ï¿½ The ethnically distinct billionaires who own the media ï¿½ whether they pretend to be ï¿½leftistï¿½ or ï¿½rightistï¿½ ï¿½ all hate Ron Paul. Heï¿½s neither a neo-Marxist equalitarian nor a neocon Zionist warmonger, so he doesnï¿½t fit in with the money-menï¿½s agenda. (2 hours 59 minutes)

You can find ï¿½ and check in to ï¿½ the Liberty Net every Saturday night starting at 10PM Eastern Time (in recent weeks, the frequency has been well above 3950 SSB ï¿½ and has often been on 3980). You can also listen live on the Internet via N2SAG (who also includes a lively chat room during Net hours) or N2IRJ , or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. For the next week or two, N2SAGï¿½s feed will be off line, so please switch to the N2IRJ live feed on those nights.

Remember that the complete net recording is posted at the very top of the right column (under ï¿½Liberty Net Audioï¿½) here on http://3950.net ï¿½ usually on the Sunday immediately following the net, so look for it there if youï¿½d like to listen. These articles and summaries (found in the center column) show up a few days to a week later.

Once again, thanks to W1WCR and all participants for making this extraordinary net possible.

I (and my listeners at KRIZ) was/were among the first to hear I Can See fo Miles. It arrived by courier at about 8 PM on a Saturday night, on an acetate covered aluminum disc. Instant smash in Phoenix (way more metal in those days). I wish I'd stolen that disc now.

Obama was truely born in Hawaii believe it or not.He was the first victim of human experimenting and was the first sucessful product of invitro-fertilization before it was legal,He was born at the NASA Mind Control Center,this is why he has no birth certifricate the Kenyan one is just as fake as the Hawaii one.His moma Stanley Anne Dunhum was CIA MKed along with both her parents at the military bases!Obamas father was CIA MKed Malcolm Little while in prison his sperm was taken for scientific experimentation.After Malcom was programmed he became a manchurian candidate spreading hatred between the races at the CIAs will.

There is a write up about Berry Little being the first testube baby born in France but not so it was Hawaii,so now you know why they called Obama Little Berry.

Little Berry was educated like his mother by the Ford Foundation and his handler was the one he refered to as Uncle Frank Davis the pediphile that raped his mother at the early age of 13.Now you can put together the rest of the story if you try!

He has a silver tounge to be a victim of CIA Mind Control he also played as Osama Ben Laden for the CIA and for such a superb achievment they rewarded him as POTUS.Acorn was a gimach the vote had nothing to do with it .NIST had control of the voting machines as do they control the slot machines and gave him his victory.

I don't worry about the Brits, Let them Dig their own Graves!

I don't worry about my half a dozen old empty very rusty tool boxes I bought at Goodwill years ago.In about a week or so when I go to the Animal Health Products store for a big bag of Pro Pac dog food, I will stop off at the seed and feed store (ergo the seed and feed store is on the way to the Animal Health Products store, I don't see any reason to burn gas making two trips) for some molasses.I will mix molasses with water in a big old plastic tub and I will see if that will derust my very rusty tool boxes.Doggy isn't worried about any tool boxes, why should I be worried?

Phosphoric acid may be used as a "rust converter", by direct application to rusted iron, steel tools, or surfaces. The phosphoric acid converts reddish-brown iron(III) oxide, Fe2O3 (rust) to black ferric phosphate, FePO4.

"Rust converter" is sometimes a greenish liquid suitable for dipping (in the same sort of acid bath as is used for pickling metal), but it is more often formulated as a gel, commonly called naval jelly. It is sometimes sold under other names, such as "rust remover" or "rust killer". As a thick gel, it may be applied to sloping, vertical, or even overhead surfaces.

After treatment, the black ferric-phosphate coating can be scrubbed off, leaving a fresh metal surface. Multiple applications of phosphoric acid may be required to remove all rust. The black phosphate coating can also be left in place, where it will provide moderate further corrosion resistance (such protection is also provided by the superficially similar Parkerizing and blued electrochemical conversion coating processes).

As usual, good discussions, right on topics, accurate ... keep on keepin' on. With all the tripe filling main scream news and main-scream-print-media, it is good when thinkers get together and have meaningful discussions ... unfortunately, with the fad in everyone being

Kelped:

1) Having a large pain your arse removed by the application of organic compounds.

2) Having a stoopid arse removed, avoided, silenced, terminated, etc.

Example(2): The person harassing and heckling the meeting was kelped from the proceedings.

They have at least one dufus who once claimed to have been the Supreme

It's a labor of love. All the comments I see and get via email indicate to me that it's making an impact on thinkers coming from both the left and the right -- and moving them to that better place which is neither left nor right, but "above." Hundreds of people now download the sound file every week.

With all good wishes,

The above, trailing, "..." = in the discussions."

Or, "... unfortunately, with the fad in everyone being brain dead

Or, even simplifed to a greater extent, " unfortuantely there ISN'T (or,
IS NOT) more intellectuals participating in the discussions."

You got it right ...

Your material is just not for morons and imbeciles who cannot, or will not, take the time for logic, reason and intellect ... some were just born to be slaves for the new world order -- scary, huh?

Indeed, one is first tempted to think humans did not, could not, evolve from apes, but in close examination of those notably lacking in these traits, and the excellent examples given here by some posters, the possibility that some did cannot be dismissed, entirely ...

How the f00k would you know what I intended or not you worthless piece of Canadian excrement?

Tamp some cotton in it, little girl.

Consider the fact that the best part of you obviously dripped down your mamas leg!

In all fairness, it is I who make you drool on command, dumbass.

I'll bet you use those Vise-Grip's when the gerbils get stuck, right?

You were an automatic dumbass at birth.

However, a pile of crap (such as yourself) is an idiot!

Quit crossposting, ya little queer Canuck.

"Do you realize how childish you look?"
Nope, I refuse to look in the mirror.

Take a walk, buttfuck.

Sheesh... another f00kin queer!

The problem is: You still get to vote.

Come on! How can anyone be straight after free beer and sausages

You are indeed a queer, are you not?

Who will you be bunking with, Bob?

Come lick me homo boy.

Come and arrest me, cockbite.

What a fookin' idiot.

Yep, the Great Spirit watches over us all!

You are worthless.

Blow me, ya dumbass Canuck!

Yeah, go ahead, you drooling idiot.

Nope, but you're a faggot now, right?

Yer mama tossed ya because you're a homo boy, ain't that true?

Did I make any distinction with regard to country, you pedantic little cocksucker?

Blow me, faggot boy!

Fuck YOU, and fuck CanaDuh.

Now asswipe, go take your meds.

Take your meds, retard.

Humanity would be better served if 'Eduardo' were to take his shtick to the fields and began picking lettuce.

And, 'Eddy', may I be so bold as to state that the best part of you obviously dripped down your mothers leg.

You are a nice retarded boy.

I don't know, though it might be fun to torture him!

Your move, bitch...

Dumbass Canucks, such as yourself, are not deserving of oxygen.

Even more ironic is that you never dispute the fact that you are a little cocksucker!

Hey, dumbass, I don't watch the Fox News channel. So, you can shove that dumbass idea right up your gaping Liberal ass!

But hey, I made $14,000 trading oil today.. blow me

Funny how the US Govt. sent me over $50,000 last year

LMFAO as I sit and look at my royalty cheques...

I prefer genuine ROLEX!

Shove it up your ass, you faux little SOB.

You're full of shit, SOB.

Jerking off not enough for you, boy?

Do you spit or swallow?

Very tasty!

Actually, I know quite a few homosexuals.

I interact on at least a weekly basis with them, and surprisingly enough, they themselves utter the words 'damn faggots' with those who tend to step out of line.

Is that the gay place to be?

Were you the blower or the blowee?

Stop whining, you pathetic little prick.

I'm gonna go buy a new Stratocaster tomorrow!

You need to buy a chink watch!

I thank the Great Spirit every day for the fact that I'm not white like you.

I know enough to realize that you most likely have BO.

But, let me say this: if we were to find that something was sent into CanaDuh, and it were not checked, and then passed to the USA for bad purposes, you'd be on your knees asking the USA not to give your sorry asses the stomping that you would so rightly deserve, you stupid, fucking, pieces of shit that you are!

I don't watch your youtube crap, cartoon boy!

God 'ol SPAM

Sorry, I'm not a racist like you, Edweenie...

Hey, Chink Boy, I got a real Rolex, still ticking after 33 years.. shove it up your slant eyed ass.

Keep blowing those beans out your sorry, un-american ass, boy.

Our data indicates that humanity would be better served if you were in the fields picking lettuce.

Wonder why.... could it be that the Canucky Niggah is timid, afraid...?

Damn, the Canucky Niggah didn't have a damn thing to say...

Extremely heavy emphasis on the BOY.

Actually VA facilities are quite good, but if you Canucky niggahs poke around one might find a lot of things wrong.

Fuckin' dumbass.

You are certainly an SOB, you stupid, MF'ing, liar and poseur!

WRNO FM 99.5 became Rush Radio today.
Rush mentioned it on the show, and also seemed to say that at least for a while they'd be carrying his show for 18 hours a day.

Your birth trait is that you're a MORON, dumbass.

Something for your faux Hispanic cock sucking brain to think about, eh?

Blow it out yer ass, Canuck!

All your talk comes from within the contours of your ass.

Yes, I am witty, and I am wise!

my mommy blew it out her ass II wrote

True, ain't it, little faux Hispanic BOY.. (Heavy emphasis on the BOY!)

Stuff a taco in it, Ramon!

And don't forget SAMBLA, South American Man Boy Love Association.

Mouth wide open, ready to take a load.

Difficult for moi?

After eating the taco's wouldn't they be capable of gassing themelves?

It is then my patriotic friend, you must reach in the closet, place your hands upon the weapon, and blow the cock sucking, bean blower back into Mary's arms....

They are mere asswipes, suitable for flushing.

How many American lives were affected by the slant eyed shit throughout the entire war?

Dumbass Canucks, sure ain't Rolex wearin' respectable folk...!

Or better yet, go get yourself some IBO Cock!

Yeah, after all, you're the Queen of your drug addled world.

And that has exactly what to do with the fact that CanaDuh is a Third World Country?

Canucks need to be castrated.

Shame? Sorry, I'm not a dumbass Canuck. Blow me, boy.

Hey, buttfuck boy... try to pay attention, you little piece of

Why are the retards mostly dumbass Canucks?

Run along little Canucky dweeb.

One of my nicknames, starting around 1975 or so has been 'Raoul'

Well, now you know them, and you know me, Karl Mauritania!

Obviously you're just a retard boy who failed as a corporate manager.

Did I say it was, shit for brains?

Because you're a moron, Druggie!

Ace is doing ok!

They don't call me 'Ace' for nothing!

And you, just another retard on the short bus.

All of my DX is better than your DX no matter what I do.

Well, I cann assure most everyone here that I've done 100% of my DX'ing without the help from anyone here, and I've had a moderate amount of success.

You claim to be 'Cherokee'... I think you're just 'Wannabee'...

No need to do anything more productive than cash the checks, invest the money, do some DX'ing, and rile up the mentally ill Canucks!

Why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (1)

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in

I think I have at least enough (by weight) old nuts and bolts and screws and washers and nails that could be melted down for China to make a made in China motorscooter.If you put one pound of Iron somewhere and leave it alone long enough untill it is nothing but rust, it would weigh one and a half pounds, I once read somewhere.I would have to charge extra for the rust.

2167. Sarah "The Quitter" Palin's Fetish For Black Men

Why hasn't "FAIR AND BALANCED" Faux News covered this story?

Apparently the image of their kosher CONservative family values poster girl with a black cock in her mouth slurping gobs of negro cum just won't play well with their viewership of lemmings. Story follows:

"Publishing sources familiar with the contents of author Joe McGinniss' highly-anticipated book "The Rogue: Searching for the Real Sarah Palin" have revealed shocking secrets that will impact her decision to enter the 2012 presidential race.

In the book, which will be published on September 20th, McGinniss claims Sarah had a steamy interracial hookup with basketball stud GLEN RICE less than a year before she eloped with her husband Todd.

Sarah hooked up with the NBA great, then a 6-foot-8 junior at the University of Michigan when he was playing in a college basketball tournament in Alaska in 1987, the book says. At the time, Sarah, just out of college, was working as a sports reporter for the Anchorage TV station KTUU.

A publishing source stated that McGinniss claims Sarah had a "fetish" for black men at the time and he quotes a friend as saying Sarah had "hauled (Rice's) ass down."

A source unrelated to the book said Todd was very much in the picture at the time and the couple married just nine months later.

In the book, McGinniss quotes Rice as confirming the one-night stand.

According to the publishing source, McGinniss confirms that Sarah carried on an extramarital affair with Todd's business partner Brad Hanson, and Todd dissolved their snowmobile dealership after he learned about the affair.McGinniss writes in the book that the affair lasted six months and he fuels rumors that the couple's marriage has been on the rocks for decades.

In another bombshell, the publishing source says, McGinniss writes that both Sarah and Todd dabbled in cocaine use. "The Rogue" claims that before Palin became Alaska governor she was seen snorting cocaine off an overturned 55-gallon oil drum while snowmobiling with pals."

These are commonly sold in the Far East and the Middle East. For Europeans and in the Americas it is possible to add one to your 'wheelS': buying one on Ebay or the internet. Because your new car dealer will not have one available.

For example: Sony Shortwave CDX-GT570S

I would be curious for anybody's experience about how much interference a running motor makes to this radio's SW reception while traveling down the road?

I had one of the Sony SW sets in my Hyundai, with excellent results. No more ignition noise in the SW than in the MW band. Good reception and AGC action.
Unfortunately, I had to let it go with the car when I sold it because I no longer had the original radio. :(

Basically, what you ask is dependent on the individual -vehicle-.
Depends on how well shielded the ignition system is, what the numerous computers and data buses are radiating and how quiet the fuel pump is.

I've even seen a case where, if the car next to you was listening to a certain commercial FM broadcast station, its receiver oscillator would interfere with a specific two meter ham repeater you were listening to in your car.

Be careful. A lot of modern cars have tuned active antenna systems and you might need a separate passive whip for the SW.

That's a Neil Young song.

The best, and cheapest way to get rid of rust on tools is thusly:

Get a big jug of white vinegar and pour it in a plastic pail. Dissolve as much regular salt in it as it will take. When you get salt on the bottom and it's not dissolving anymore, no matter how hard you stir, it's enough.

A gallon of vinegar will probably take a couple of pounds of salt.

Place rusty tools in the liquid overnight. Make sure the liquid completely covers the tools, or you'll get a line across the metal you will NEVER get rid of.

This liquid removes only rust and is reusable for months. It's also non toxic when you finally pour it out in the back of the garden.

Try it on something of no value first, like a rusty nail. After an overnight soaking, remove tools and give them a good rinsing with fresh water. Then, either oil the tools or paint them with a thin coat of rust proofing paint.

If you're really thorough, rearrange the tools once in a while, so all surfaces get exposed evenly to the vinegar mixture.

This is the best best method I've found for cleaning up old rusty ferrous metal.

- It's also non toxic

? A Gallon of Vinegar is Non-Toxic !

? A Couple of Pounds of Salt Dissolved to the Saturation Point in Vinegar is Non-Toxic !

Plus add-in all the Dissolved Rust from

Ah the Truth About Haliburton Corp and Brown & Root {aka 'Burn & Loot'}and Lady
Bird Johnson [and a lot of Rich Democrats]
who received NO-Bit Contracts for the Vietnam

-fact-not-fiction-

Truth is that both major US Political Parties
are Part of Crony {Corporate} Capitalism :

Both the Husbands of the California Liberal Democrat US Senators Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer received NO-Bit Contracts for the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan; and made Millions as War Profiteers.

Plus ex-Speaker of the US House Nancy Pelosi's Family also received NO-Bit Contracts for the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan; and made Millions

Well at least Barbara Lee [D-CA] did not Vote

so they did NOT made Millions as War Profiteers.

ARLP037 Propagation de K7RA

Although average daily sunspot numbers are lower - down nearly 13 points to 91.7 - average daily solar flux is higher by 6.7 points (to 122.2) and solar activity is rising rapidly. You could see it coming earlier this week by glancing at the STEREO mission (at http://stereo.gsfc.nasa.gov) when you looked at the back side of the Sun. Lots of activity was evident, and you can still see quite a bit more (those white patches) just over the eastern horizon, which is on the left side of the image beyond -90 degrees.

The image of the daily Sun at http://spaceweather.com/ shows a disc peppered with sunspots, a welcome sight after watching the current solar cycle appear to stall.

Numerous CME events disturbed Earth's magnetic field, and the planetary A index record shows September 9, 10 and 12 were the most active days, with the index at 36, 33 and 27.

The Autumnal Equinox in the Northern Hemisphere is just a week away, September 23 at 0905 UTC, which is 5:05 AM EDT or 02:05 AM PDT. Luckily, the increased sunspot activity should continue.

The updated prediction for solar flux and planetary A index from USAF/NOAA sure changed from Wednesday to Thursday. Solar flux is predicted to be lower than earlier thought and planetary A index higher.

Wednesday's prediction had solar flux at 145 on September 15-17, and 150 September 18-22. On Thursday, September 15 the actual solar flux was 140.7.

Thursday's forecast has solar flux at 140 on September 16-17, 135 on September 18-19, 130 on September 20, and 125, 120, 120 and 110 on September 21-24, and 115 on September 25-29. Predicted planetary A index is 10, 20 and 15 on September 16-18, 5 on September 19-23, 7 on September 24-25, 5 on September 26-29, and 15 on September 30.

You can compare the September 14-15 forecasts at http://www.swpc.noaa.gov/ftpmenu/forecasts/45DF.html.

Geophysical Institute Prague predicts quiet conditions September 16-17, quiet to unsettled September 18, active on September 19, quiet to unsettled September 20, and quiet again on September 21-22.

Ed Richmond of South Carolina writes, "I usually live on 6 meters during the summer sporadic season. The propagation went downhill at the end of August, and I more or less quit the band. However, on September 9, I noticed some spots on the DX reflector of an opening into northwest South America, and decided to take a look.

"I heard an S9+ signal on CW and thought it might be a local. When he signed as HK7AAG (Colombia) I nearly fell off my chair. I called and worked him, and about two minutes later, heard HC1HC (Ecuador), not as loud but copyable. I called and worked him as well. A few minutes later I worked YV5ZV in Caracas. I had not expected any of this, since September has statistically the lowest incidence of sporadic-E propagation.

"The whole thing is even more amazing, because I live in a CC&R neighborhood, and my 6 meter antenna is a dipole mounted about 35 feet high in the attic. I'm always amazed at what I have been able to work with that antenna in four years on 6 meters.

"Of course, my QTH doesn't hurt either. I live on Harbor Island (EM92sj) 14 miles out from Beaufort, SC, on a barrier island. My QTH is right on a salt marsh that looks out on the Atlantic Ocean.

"Will continue to check 6 meters for some TEP this month. Hope I get lucky."

Thanks, Ed!

Scott Bidstrup, TI3/W7RI of Costa Rica sent an article from New Scientist suggesting that a big enough CME could deposit radiation in low earth orbit around the earth that could persist for decades. Scott wonders if there would be a long lasting effect on radio propagation. Read it at http://www.newscientist.com/article/mg21128294.300.

Mike Schaffer of Tampa, Florida (EL87) monitors television broadcasts across Central America via sporadic-E.

On September 10 he wrote, "This morning at 1436 UTC I received a analog NTSC broadcast from Televisora Nacional, TVN-2, HOU in Panama City, Republic of Panama via sporadic-E at a distance of 1,320 air miles."

On September 9 Mike wrote, "At 2110 UTC on Friday, September 9, 2011 F2 propagation was noticed on NTSC analog channel 2 coming from due south from South America.

"The first thing I noticed was what appeared to be a out of phase sporadic-E taken place but the video would not sync lock even though the signal was at moderate signal levels with only light fading. Then the video appeared with warped diagonal, horizontal and vertical scroll bars.

"The audio was almost non existent to weak with multi-path distortion that produced a fair amount of scatter reflections. The audio was so muffled that the TV mono speaker was not good enough. To correct this effect stereo headphones were used.

"What struck me was that the Spanish audio dialect was not the normal that I am accustomed to hearing from other DX propagation modes from Mexico, Central America countries or northern coast of South America.

"At 2135 UTC the F2 storm had peaked at my location. At this point a manual channel scan was performed on all VHF low, high, and UHF 14, 15 and 16 channels. The results indicated the maximum usable frequency did not exceed the audio carrier at 59.75 MHz.

"At 2203 the storm declined to a moderate state. It was at this time a weak Spanish black & white video program appeared lasting perhaps five seconds in duration.

"I would suspect that it was either coming from Quito, Ecuador at 1,950 miles or Lima, Peru at 2,779 miles distance because the bearing to both cities from my QTH is at 171 degrees in azimuth.

"Minimum F2 single-hop paths can start roughly 2,000 miles and reach a maximum of to 3,000 miles.

"At 2223 the F2 geomagnetic storm rapidly faded back to normal conditions."

On September 5 Mike wrote, "At 0001 UTC, a second northern Es event took place on 90.1, CBC Radio 2 airing the Strombo show from Sunbury, Ontario, Canada rushed in like a local broadcaster at 1,300 miles distance."

Estimated planetary A indices were 4, 36, 33, 9, 27, 17, and 4, with a mean of 18.6. Estimated mid-latitude A indices were 2, 13, 20, 8, 17, 11, and 5, with a mean of 10.9.

Truth-be-Told & The Public Record Shows

Ah the Truth About Haliburton Corp and
Brown & Root {aka 'Burn & Loot'}and Lady
Bird Johnson [and a lot of Rich Democrats]
who received NO-Bit Contracts for the Vietnam War; and made Millions as War Profiteers.
-fact-not-fiction-

Truth is that both major US Political Parties
are Part of Crony {Corporate} Capitalism :

Both the Husbands of the California Liberal
Democrat US Senators Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer received NO-Bit Contracts for
the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan; and made Millions as War Profiteers.
-fact-not-liberal-fiction-

Plus ex-Speaker of the US House Nancy Pelosi's
Family also received NO-Bit Contracts for the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan; and made Millions
as War Profiteers.
-fact-not-democrat-fiction-

Well at least Barbara Lee [D-CA] did not Vote for these Bush/Obama Wars for Oil; and did not arrange for her Family Members to get NO-Bit Contracts for the Wars in Iraq and Afghanistan;
so they did NOT made Millions as War Profiteers.
-truth-be-told-

Like him or not at least anti-military {anti-war} former us representative Ron Dellums [D-CA] was NOT a Vietnam War Profiteer.

Liberty Net: September 10, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/09/liberty-net-september-10-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE LIBERTY NET actually took place on 3950 kHz this time ï¿½ for the first time in several years ï¿½ and, ironically, this happened on the night we received the news of the death of one of the most egregious jammers in amateur radio history, WA9KJI. The discussions didnï¿½t focus on negativity, though, and the ideas presented were original, wide-ranging, and at turns philosophical, political, and humorous.

Here are some of the concepts brought forth and issues debated on amateur radioï¿½s historic Liberty Net this week:

ï¿½ The latest ï¿½stimulusï¿½ bill has nothing to do with boosting the economy, and everything to do with ruling by decree: No one will even be able to read the complete text of this pretended law until after it is passed. (44 minutes)

ï¿½ Did you know that millions of dollars earmarked for identifying dead victims of the 9/11 attacks were stolen by the Indian nationals who were hired as the programï¿½s administrators in the name of ï¿½diversityï¿½? (50 minutes)

ï¿½ The government program that heavily subsidizes the wages of ï¿½new hiresï¿½ (those who have been looking for work for six months or more) has only succeeded in initiating a churning process in which workers are continually fired once the subsidies run out on them, and more ï¿½new hiresï¿½ are then added. This means that taxpayers are continually supporting the profits of the businesses engaging in the churning, and workers are more insecure than ever. This can be very profitable for the unethical businesses: Fire 10,000 workers, then get $4,000 per worker in subsidies ï¿½ and receive a total of forty million dollars! (1 hour 1 minute)

ï¿½ All of the regimeï¿½s ï¿½solutionsï¿½ for unemployment involve subsidies, taxation, regulation, and maintaining the huge current labor surplus. The only real solution is never mentioned: Eliminate the huge supply of illegal Mestizo scab labor, and wages and employment would zoom up instantly. (1 hour 10 minutes)

ï¿½ Back in the 1950s, when there was still a substantial American faction in Washington, Mestizo invaders were sent back across the border to their home countries on a mass scale in an effort openly referred to as ï¿½Operation Wetback.ï¿½ (1 hour 15 minutes)

ï¿½ The annual cost of air conditioning alone for the American cannon fodder in Iraq and Afghanistan is over $20 billion. That includes huge costs for transporting fuel ï¿½ but itï¿½s still some $200,000 per soldier per year! One could build a lot of houses for newly-impoverished middle class Americans with that money. (1 hour 19 minutes)

ï¿½ It was easy for the Libyan rebels to identify Qaddafiï¿½s mercenaries ï¿½ many of them were imported from sub-Saharan Africa. Huge numbers of them ï¿½ the ones who survived, that is ï¿½ have now been herded into concentration camps, and one hears remarkably little about it. (2 hours 15 minutes)

ï¿½ The regime in Washington is now refusing to pay municipalities for the costs of jailing illegal immigrants ï¿½ which means that many thousands will simply be released. (2 hours 18 minutes)

Remember that you can find ï¿½ and check in to ï¿½ the Liberty Net on a clear frequency around 3950-4000 kHz LSB every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time, or you can listen live on the Internet via N2SAG or N2IRJ, or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. (For a few weeks the N2SAG feed will be down; please use the N2IRJ feed instead.)

Thanks to W1WCR for running the Liberty Net, and thanks to N2IRJ and N2SAG for giving the net a great online presence.

More like pure pablum, a very lame promo, Anytown, USA could blather the same platitudes. Small wonder they had to enlist a has been brain damaged druggie like Tim Allen to recite the lines. Gosh and what a fine representative of the Wolverine state!

On 2 October 1978, Tim Allen Dick was arrested in Detroit for possession of a pound and a half of cocaine. Under Michigan law, he could have been sentenced to life in prison. Instead he turned state's evidence -- the legal term for ratting on your cohorts. Allen reportedly fingered at least 21 co-conspirators, and in exchange, he was sentenced to just five years under the more lenient (at that time) federal law. He was paroled after 2½ years. He was arrested for drunk driving in 1997, after he nearly fell over and couldn't count backwards during a roadside sobriety check Also in 1997, Allen was in an auto accident in Studio City, California, and injured a 72-year-old retired librarian named Henry Armstrong. Armstrong told the National Enquirer that Allen "was bleary-eyed and unsteady on his feet, and he never uttered a word, never mind said sorry." Allen sued the old man for $12 million, complaining that Allen's "business as a well-known and well-respected actor, entertainer, author, commercial spokesperson and product endorser has been damaged." Allen dropped the lawsuit two years later, as a "humanitarian gesture" when he learned that Armstrong was suffering from brain cancer.

Oh bye the bye, how far is Holland from Bay City, Michigan? You know the town that shut off the heat of a 93 yr. old WWII veteran who froze to death in his own living room? I'm sure you remember the story because you smugly gloated about it in this newsgroup. Story can be found at http://www.wsws.org/articles/2009/jan2009/bayc-j28.shtml

Anyway, your effort to rehabilitate your image is commendable. You've been doing fairly well since the authorities began tracking your internet postings and activities last year. It must have been very uncomfortable for you being under constant surveillance during President Obama's visit to Holland awhile back. Good for you.

We are at war, a real one, and not the theft and rape of other countries resources which criminals who illegal occupy our public servant offices are engaged in. Like common criminals they stuff their pockets with payments from their wealthy rich masters to, carry out their dark and evil plans of a new world order ...

The perverts and criminals keep attempting to present themselves as heroes and leaders, but a close examination dispels the smoke and mirrors and reveals the swine which they are ...

It is a sad day for America, real patriots, real men and women, ethics, morals, etc. Evil stalks the land ...

However, this is also a very great time in history. Once again brave and righteous men are presented with ample opportunity to water the tree of liberty ... they hear a call to arms, and answer ... and forums such as yours present them with voice of why this is just and right.

This is a time when real heroes stand and are seen head and shoulders above the human trash and swine. It begins as a smoldering, and then bursts into the actions which are the stuff which is history is written of ... we shall not be bored, but be thankful we live in interesting times.

RON PAUL IN 2012, THERE IS NO OTHER CHOICE!

JS

I'm currently listening to Al Gore being interviewed on the BBC at 0845. Al is just as mentally ill as he has been for years. The interviewer doesn't seem to be very far behind.

This whole global warming/climate change shtick still seems to revolve around Al making some money, and, clown 'tard Liberal/Democrat/Marxist/Socialist government(s) taxing folks.

Program name is apparently 'One Planet'. With Al on, best to rename it 'One Kook'.

Al Gore doesn't need any more money. He has been top-tier rich since he

It probably is. But then, it's the same "fed govt" that yanked the money out of his (and mine) check every week in an effort to prop up some damn Liberal/Democrat/Marxist/Socialist Ponzi scheme. The bastards even sent out a flyer every year indicating what ones benefits were/are going to be!

Now, you dumbass MoFo's are complaining because folks actually have the audacity to actually collect!

Gosh. You must be terribly conflicted. Not me. When I see concrete being poured to make the freeway work better I feel a sense of civic pride, that I helped pay for it. You see a few poor people getting an agricultural subsidy and think you're under siege.

You are the government. If it sucks that means you suck.

UFPJ was officially created on October 25, 2002 in the Washington, DC

Its initial membership consisted of approximately 70 organizations.
Prior to UFPJ's founding, the anti-war movement had earned a reputation as a hodgepodge of radical elements. All the large-scale peace demonstrations to that point had been held under the auspices of International ANSWER, an organization aligned with the Marxist-Leninist Workers World Party;

United For Peace and Justice was created explicitly to put a milder face on the anti-war movement, although from its inception UFPJ shared with the aforementioned groups a passionate hatred for the United States and for capitalism.

According Jianbang Gan, an environmental science professor at Texas A&M University, global warming is strongly tied to an increase in wildfires. He predicts that if the temperature climbs by 7 degrees Fahrenheit—what climate experts predict for Texas by the end of the century—the number of wildfires will more than double. Increased concentrations of CO2 in the atmosphere will cause plants to grow faster, while higher temperatures will dry them out more quickly, setting the stage for the kind of intense blazes that have consumed 3.5 million acres in the Lone Star State this year.

The direct causes of this year's wildfires are a record-breaking heat wave and the worst single-year drought in state history, which is itself linked to climate change. The drought has been the result of storms shifting northward—the same conditions predicted by climate change models. Though it may also be caused by the naturally occurring La Niña weather pattern, human-induced global warming "is almost certainly making this extreme event worse," Texas A&M climate scientist Andrew Dessler told ThinkProgress Green. "There is absolutely no way that you can conclude that climate change is not playing a role here."

Wow...what a relief that you set us straight. It gives us great comfort here to know that you have more knowledge than the 98% of climatological scientists that do believe that mankind is at least partially responsible for global warming.

Iraq and Afghanistan cannon fodder? You referring to those poor mutilated kids in the hospital?

Thank you, George W. Bush! Too bad you had to start those bogus "wars" that got all those kids killed to get Saddam's WMDs.

Oh, what's that you say? Ten years later, we STILL haven't found any WMDs? NO Saddam connection to Al Queda? Oh well, at least Haliburton

1) NEVER said Gore had a degree in climatology.

2) NEVER said I had a degree in climatology.

However, both of us are quoting those that are climatological scientists.

Apparently, you are saying that your "degree" in "common sense" trumps what 98% of real climatological scientists say.

Nice tap dance, but no cigar.

There's always an excuse about what happens. If it snows, it's climate change and if it rains it's global warming.

Bottom line: people, and more importantly, corporations need to be taxed.

Just listen to them, and you'll discover this.

The Solyndra fiasco illustrates the fruits of going green and unionized wages. China builds 100's of coal energy plants every year without paying extra to make them pollution free. Their workers receive a smaller hourly wage. Their cheaply built factories pollute. Therefore cheap Chinese solar panels dominate the market and nobody wants to pay extra for expensive American Solyndra panels which cost so much more.

Every nation that spends trillions to go carbon neutral will not be competitive on the world market. Therefore those nations economies will flounder and those nations will not have the monies to build large armies. Other countries will never respect them and their people will grow poorer and live in fear. Nations like China that do not give a royal fig about global warming will dominate more and more. Militarily and financially.

Any nation with Predator drones and nuclear attack subs is already on top militarily. We can kill everyone in your house, or everyone in your capitol city.

The key phrase is "world market". We cannot compete on the "world market" because we don't pollute and we don't work people 'til they drop dead. Either the "world market" goes or Norman Rockwell's America goes. The two cannot co-exist.

You haven't been out much lately, have you? Bank savings accounts, and that includes CD's and IRA's, are not an investment. They don't even keep up with rising prices or the devaluation of the dollar. Best I've seen even for an IRA in about two years is around 2.5%. Savings doesn't even make a full percentage point. Interest on a checking account is a joke, and not even a funny one... in the 1/100ths of a percentage point.

Most pay between 6 and 25% interest on a credit card, the lucky ones at the lower end. But you can barely earn a small fraction of that on what YOU give to the bank.

It's about 1 in 3 billionaires, Sparky. I just thought of her because someone mentioned narcissism.

The world financial system is based entirely on "good faith". "Good faith" is a dying concept in the hyper-real world we are waking up in.
Investment as practised today is classic parasitism. No value is created except by improving a thing by applying work. Eliminate the middleman.

Western Civilization is a Green Zone of cards, and a haboob is a gathering.

That's incredibly old news. The ability of the ocean to absorb CO2 is showing signs of waning, plus all that CO2 makes the undersea version of acid rain, and is killing all the microscopic life at the base of the food chain. There is enough frozen methane on the sea floor to turn this place into Venus.

Why do so many see the need to swear. It's as if they don't know how to argue a point.

Before getting into this I'd like for people to understand the distinction between physical and financial capital.

When money is put into a bank and the bank lends it out what they are lending is financial capital. Financial capital is really nothing more than an aggregate of promises. Consider the confederate currency. It had value then it didn't. The value of money is its value in trade.

Singer found it chould find people who could afford to pay cash for their sewing machines so they sold them on time. That is they sold them for more money than they cost to build and "lent" money they didn't have but represented value people were willing to "borrow". The created money out of thin air.

A couple of decades back the movie "Trading Places" came out.
In it two brothers make a bet about the lives of two people.
The back drop is the commodity market. As it turns out the brothers were getting an early peak at the orange production report. Getting one's hands on this report would give them an advantage since they could trade on private information before it was anounced to the public. The tables were turned and they lost their shits.

A few decades ago the Hunt brothers tried to corner the silver market. The price shot up from $5 per oz to $50 per oz. Bigger fish restored the market but a lot of minnows were hurt in the process. There is value in use and value in trade. One of these values is internal where the other rests upon markets of aggregate supply and demand and marginal rates.

There is a options trading model known as Black-Scholes. One doesn't need to know it inside and out to understand the concepts. The idea is there is a premium for risk taking and that risk can be quantisized. Traders can use this to help them decide if an option is over or under valued.

Everyone is susceptible to risk. The poor can lolerate less risk because they can't weather it as well. Retirees who live close to or beyond their ROI can't tolerate much risk. For all the talk about how much better investors the rich are much of it just boils down to being risk tolerant.

The cash economy is just above barter. The risk referenced above is one of performance and promise to perform. When people can't tolerate even small risks they trade as close to goods as they can and for the goods they need for current consumption and production.

The right wing has no idea of the system of privilege they are promoting. They don't care one whit about rewarding hard work. Instead they want to increase the return to those who find themselves in a position of power that allows them to tolerate risk and make sure hard work is rewarded by a constant pressure of demand approaching the risk free return so the masses have no chance to set aside anything for their future.

Like a casino, a few winners are good for the business but most have to lose.

Get a netbook and a USB dongle sound card and a wideband black box running some kind of SDR. You can use any skin you like.

Since it doesn't use nixie tubes, probably not. The readout is LED.

And it still wouldn't be half as pleasant to use as the most unergonomic radio JRC ever made. Nothing compares, IMHO to the layout and

Thanks, I usually don't listen to this one. I thought that Mike Williams

What Frequency?

On the East Asian frequencies, it's usually 0:30 UTC Saturday

Monday on 9740/6195/5875. Or at 3:30 AM PDT on the PRI feed on the local FM station.

Speak for yourself, Sparky. Out here in the West it shows up as an extended forest fire season, melting mountain top glaciers, and oysters with reproduction problems from ocean acidification.

(On the other hand, that "carbon credits" stuff is a poorly regulated market, disconnected from reality, that your sort of free market speculators must be having wet dreams about. "Lets turn pollution into a commodity!" Shudder... What a scam.)

Probably not in some individual subsystems or components. But overall...they're about the same.

Kind of like the difference between R71, and R5000. The ICOM and Kenwood had different strengths, different weaknesses, but were, when all was said and done, equivalent products.

I had a R-5000 for a few years, always liked the audio on it. It was/is more flexible than the R7, but overall, if I had to choose, I'd take the R7 just for its flexibility and IF shift, and, for its IF notch filter versus an audio notch.

I still like the Sherwood 3 kHz filter that I have in the R7.

When I got back into DX'ing in 81-82 I really liked the Yaesu FRG-7700 which opened up a whole new world. digital readout, park on the frequency and they were either there or not. That, and the recording/timer function and I could listen while I was sleeping.

Got my first R7 in 1984 or so, and the R5000 around '89 or '90 if I recall. And when the R8 came out I got that in '91.

Great times!

Morons, such as him/her/it be afraid?

Surely, you jest!

The idiot cops chipped in with the NWO banksters and criminal government servants and broke it up ... truth is, those criminal banksters and wall-street-types should be locked up ... better yet, a prison island set up for them ...

Yes, the rich elite "investments" are into farming, ag, toilet paper, real assets, etc. (and, of course, the homes and wealth they have stolen and are stealing) ... all the necessary support items and properties necessary to keep the sheeple supporting them ... and then, of course, there are the al-gore-swine who wish to sell you worthless fears and tax you for them ... sad, so very, very sad ... no wonder some are so

When you have something worth reading come back and try again.

Or, alternately, if he has any idea what he's talking about.

1) I'm not a neo-anything. I'm a centrist and believe that much of what both of the major parties in the US do is insanity, based upon the classic definition: "Insanity is doing the same thing over and over again, and expecting different results"

2) See above

3) He needs to learn the meaning of the word "fascist", and then take a good inventory of who is actually running the country.

4) I happen to have not one, but TWO IRA accounts, and have dabbled in the stock market (unfortunately, it was MCI) and tried to get in on Ford stock when it was down to a buck a share, but didn't have the liquidity to take advantage of that.

And, you already screwed up. Your "financial capital" they are loaning out is just debt ... they are loaning 10 bucks for everyone they have to back it up ... they are just loading the marks asses up with debt so they will work like slaves to make the other 9 bucks and pay off the debt they have created, and you so kindly agreed to pay off for them.

I played with both R71 and R-5000 for a while before I settled on R-71. Mostly for it's control layout.

With the crystal filter, it had very nice narrow selectivity.
Although the audio was a bit harsh.

Never worked FRG-7700, beyond a short test drive. But I did own a FRG-7 for some years. That was a nice rig. The simplicity of operation of a CM-1, but with much more robust, and quiet, performance.

I'd heard you, and others, raving about your Drakes for so long, that when an R8A showed up at a model train show a few years ago, for an absurdly low price, I had to have it.

And I understand why you like it so much. Still give the RX-350 and AR-7030+ a good workout, but I have to admit, I think I may be firing up the Drake a bit more often than either.

The JRC undoubtedly has better build quality. I have a Drake R7A and a JRC NRD-515. Both are excellent performers; the R7A is a bit better in performance. But the 515 is built like a tank, while the R7A is not too physically robust.

I thought long and hard about apple when it dropped to 3.5. Part of me said
OK, the most I could be out with 1,000 shares is $3,509.99 but at the time that was a big deal. Starbucks was selling at $1 a share when I first looked at it but one had to buy 20,000 shares minimum. Risk management is a big deal when one doesn't have the money to risk. At least I didn't get into Egghead. One remembers the big wins one missed but not the big losses one avided.

Much better, actually. The R7 is a great radio, but it's a tin box

I briefly had a NRD-515 with the NCM-515 frequency and NDH-515 memory unit that I picked up via the 'Ham Trader Yellow Sheets' (some might remember that) for a song. Split the set up and resold it. That had to have been pre-1994.

I just didn't care for the audio on the JRC's.

JRC is the modern equivalent of Collins in the 1950's.

What has been said elsewhere:

Collins made extraordinary radios using extraordinary components.
Drake made extraordinary radios using ordinary components.

I suppose. I go for performance these days, the ionosphere being what it is. I have left a trail of good feeling radios too heavy or too bulky to pack. If I was buying a radio for cool knobs I'd probably go for a 51s-1. Nobody around here has more experience on big knob Collins shit than I do. I got a lot of that out of my system as a radio teen.

I sure as hell am not going to spend $1,900 on a radio without a USB or a 232 port.

The best way to get even with people who love money is to crash the damn themselves. 3 months from now some brokers will envy the people in tent

This is the best of the "student" class radios, IMHO. If you're going to good and glows. Get one with a little warmth to the audio.

It is still an investment. Where exsactly do you think banks get the funds to make loans to anyone? Do you believe they just print their own to loan out. That money comes from savings, CDs interest paid to the banks on loans etc.

Funny, I point out that Hilton has her money invested regardless of how she got it and you want to change the cubject by whining about whether or not she has any lucrative investments.
Chances are she has her money in stocks and bonds and such thus her money is being used by many more than just herself.

any benefit from it other than the investor.

You need the right speaker and a few mods that don't cost much at all, and it's not bad. I never really listened to much AM stuff anyway, so it wasn't any big deal as the SSB modes were great.

You have it back-ass-wards ...

Today it is inflation, they start up the presses and magically transform x amount of dollars into 2x amount of dollars. Your wages go to 2x amount of dollars, your bank account becomes 2x amount of dollars ...

But, dummy, your money buys 1/2x amount of dollars ... this is the "good deal" al core and the criminals in public servant offices keep telling everyone about ...

Look closely, you will notice only morons are believing it ...

LOL, calling a high end reciever "sudent class" is hilarious. JRC made a some tube sets too, if you're really into heating up your room. I have a Hammarlund HQ-100 that's been modded to insane levels and I leave it on all Winter, just to keep the room tolerable.

While the United States is still debating whether to build a more efficient kind of coal-fired power plant that uses extremely hot steam, China has begun building such plants at a rate of one a month.

Unless you are investing in business in china, india, etc., I'd put my money in real assets, not someones contract/commitment/obligations/promises, etc., precious metals, land, etc. are good investments ... some forecast on some entities ability to produce "money" is a failing and faulty crystal ball, these days ...

Today, you want to THROW THE WORTHLESS DOLLARS AT "THEM."

Get rid of those little green bits of paper with presidents faces on them anyway you can ... good solid property is a good and real investment, precious metals another, rights to technology, patents, etc. are good also -- but common sense is necessary. Investments in foreign workers and plants is also "good" investments ... unfortunately, our public servants have generally made "investing in America" a failing and very bad idea ... hopefully, and in the near future, this can be corrected ... but, in the meantime, closing your eyes and wishing for better is NOT a sane option.

Simply said, and "explained" would be to just mentally model what is happening ...:

Ask yourself, "Why aren't they paying me a decent return to use my money?"

Once you realize the answer is, "Because they can print all they want and don't have to use yours!" You suddenly realize the stoopidity of investing in such foolishness ...

Well, I guess some don't ...

Steve mentioned the R7, a classic student radio. A student radio has only basic controls, that conform to teaching textbooks. That radio was expensive and built like a tank, but not high-end performing. That would require a RACAL or a TenTec or a Watkins-Johnson or a Harris from that era. But those radios all have complicated front panels for advanced users. Radios like the JRC are built for ham fisted sailors, not listening posts.

A mammoth army of infected computers is being assembled, but it's unclear yet what purpose they will be put to.

Wave after wave of malicious email attachments has been sent out since August, and with average success rates for such mailings, millions of machines could be compromised, says Internet security firm Commtouch.

Once infected, the computers can be loaded with additional malware that can perform a range of activities, including spamming, participating in DDoS attacks, stealing bank credentials and compromising email and social-network accounts, according to an upcoming Commtouch blog post.

As cavemen hunkered down around their campfires, the fire pit released voluminous amounts of carbon dioxide. As forest fires raged across lands, voluminous amounts of carbon dioxide was, and still is, released. As yeasts convert sugars into ethanol, voluminous amounts of carbon dioxide are release to produce the boozed consumed, planet wide. From bacteria in the soil, to birds, cattle, humans, elephants, whales, etc., voluminous amounts of carbon dioxide are released. As vegetation rots in the depths of the seas, on the forest floors, on high mountain tops, voluminous amounts of carbon dioxide are release ... it has been harmless for time immemorial.

It is harmless to life, indeed, it is a VERY necessary plant food ...

Now the crooks want to make money off of it, great. But, I can't imagine anyone but your common idiots, morons, imbeciles, crooks, etc. supporting such out right criminal schemes.

Now, you talk about the poisons spewed from an autos exhaust, the brain damage caused by such pollution, the increased risk of cancers, these poisons permeating into ground waters, living organisms and coating the planet, and, I CAN GET UPSET ...

Indeed, next time you are in your auto and cruising down the freeway, realize that you are immersed in a stream of these toxins. You air-conditioning is NOT removing them, you are breathing these toxins, absorbing them into your body, they are imbedding themselves in your bones and teeth, measurable amounts are introducing themselves into your brain and nervous system, etc.

And, try to realize how some might consider you insane for showing upset over harmless carbon dioxide while you are soft-killing yourself with such toxins ... but worrying about the insignificant ...

Certainly they are building one power plant a month.

As manufacturers to the world, they -need- all that electricity. Too bad we make very little in this country any more -- and too bad the greed of wanting cheap products drove most of our manufacturing to China.

Oh, sorry, I almost forgot. We need those cheap products because no one here has a decent paying job any more and therefore can only afford "cheap".

One thing here, John: in many {most?} areas, the.modern automobile's emission systems actually have made the exhaust cleaner than the air being injested by the engine.

Cheap products are not a bad thing in and of themselves. Remember that Japanese products were also cheap.

Not so much any more. Industrializing a nation requires certain steps.
Cheap manufactured goods is only an early step.

But there are a lot better ways to generate power than coal.
Geothermal, being among the cleanest. Even thorium nuclear is a better option. Clean, plentiful, scalable pursuant to demand, self regulating reaction, and apolitical, in that it can't be used to create weapons.

Something we should have long begun here.

The R7 (and the companion TR7) were designed in a different day. There were lots of stations to receive, and almost no noise. Someone on the east coast of the US could get BBC, Radio Moscow, CHU, WWV, and a few other stations by attaching a 1 foot wire to the back of the radio.

On a good day, you coud receive stations from (eastern) Asia and Australia, South America and Africa.

If you had an outside antenna of almost any size, (1m or longer), you could receive them almost all the time. Not the same stations all day, but the except for the BBC and Radio Moscow, they were scheduled to only be on during best propigation hours.

The BBC and Radio Moscow were on 24/7.

It was also still the time when a wide skirt filter was desired for AM, so that you would get pleasant sounding broadcasts. You did not need a narrow skirt, or for that matter a narrow passband filter.

The the late 1980's and early 1990's came around and you needed as sharp a filter as you could get for Shortwave listening. Forget about audio quality and ease of listening.

Yes, I have ignored CW and SSB, but that's a whole different topic and not very important to the average 1970's listener they were not important. In those days people still listened to SWBC for news and entertainment.

Yeah, the ignorant need to fix this:

So, grab a free virus scanner and a good malware scanner and fix the

Or, just kick back with SD (special dave), bong toke yourself into

I'm talking about basic principles of finance, not crazy assed conspiracies. The argument was put forth that people like Hilton with inherited money don't deserve it and do not benefit anyone by having
it. That is false and that is what my post addresses.

The only thing which would help there is, smite dumbass hilton with the power of God, turn her to ash and take her money and feed and take care of the poor and homeless ...

However, no such actions, like that, from God, in millennia, a shame too!

You mean, you didn't read the last smog report on your auto, THIS TIME READ IT!

Just this:

"MTBE (methyl tertiary-butyl ether) is a chemical compound that is manufactured by the chemical reaction of methanol and isobutylene. MTBE is produced in very large quantities (over 200,000 barrels per day in the U.S. in 1999) and is almost exclusively used as a fuel additive in motor gasoline. It is one of a group of chemicals commonly known as "oxygenates" because they raise the oxygen content of gasoline. At room temperature, MTBE is a volatile, flammable and colorless liquid that dissolves rather easily in water."

And, here is what is wrong with it:
http://auto.howstuffworks.com/fuel-efficiency/fuel-consumption/question347.htm

Yanno'? I am for the killing/hanging and murdering of all "al-gore-heads", if you see me coming, RUN!!!!

Why hate someone simply for being born into wealth?
When did it become a sin for parents to leave anything to their children?
If someone has an uncle or a grandmother that ends up leaving them a few million or even billion dollars in their will, just how does that suddenly make them deserving of such vitriol?
Time and time again envious individuals have posted here how they hate anyone who inherited the family farm or their parents fortune citing that "they didn't do anything to earn it" and claiming some imaginary moral high ground by whining that they know better what those people should do with their own property.
People that win lotteries don't do much other than purchasing a $2 ticket so should they also be "smitten by God and turned into ashes" simply because they just got lucky?

Take every penny from every millionaire and billionaire in the country and you'll have a grand total of just over $800 Billion.
Take it and give it to the homeless and the poor and within a short period of time the money will be gone and the poor will still be poor and the homeless will still be homeless. In fact there will be even more poor and homeless as there will be quite a few people who will find themselves unemployed because their employers no longer have any means of providing them a job or a paycheck. And then where will you look to find someone to take from?

- One thing here, John: in many {most?} areas, the.modern automobile's

Now there is an actual evolved 'clean/cleaner-air

Why is it used?

MTBE has been used in U.S. gasoline at low levels since 1979 to replace lead as an octane enhancer (helps prevent the engine from "knocking"). Since 1992, MTBE has been used at higher concentrations in some gasoline to fulfill the oxygenate requirements set by Congress in the 1990 Clean Air Act Amendments. (A few cities, such as Denver, used oxygenates (MTBE) at higher concentrations during the wintertime in the late 1980's.)
-Ibid.

Thanks for pointing out that the GOVERNMENT's mandating the use of methanol and MTBE causes air pollution. <snicker>

It's known as "The Law of Unintended Consequences."

Many (most?) fuell addatives _are_ government-mandated.

Microbes fight gas additive Contamination: A combination of bacteria and oxygen shows promise in cleaning up ground water polluted by MTBE.

By Timothy B. Wheeler
Baltimore Sun Staff

PORT HUENEME, Calif. -- Almost hidden by a low stockade fence, an unassuming tangle of white plastic pipe and metal tanks on the parade ground of a Navy base here could revolutionize cleanup of one of the nation's most vexing environmental messes.

The West Coast home of the Seabees, Port Hueneme (why-KNEE-me) is a major staging area for the naval engineers, with sprawling parking lots for their vehicles and hardware. Like many military bases, this 1,600-acre complex sits above ground water that has been contaminated -- in this case with a mile-long plume of a gasoline additive called methyl tertiary butyl ether, or MTBE.

Scientists say they hope their system -- which uses bacteria to devour the chemical -- could trim millions of dollars and decades from the current costly, time-consuming cleanups.

I have a radio that has a conventional RF path and an SDR I.F; I consider it the best of both worlds. It has every knob that's on the JRC (times 2, on some parameters because I can add a second receiver and there are concentric controls for RF and AF Gain.)

FWIW, my crystal filters are identical to the ones JRC uses!

http://www.amazon.com/Roots-Obamas-Rage-Dinesh-DSouza/dp/1596986255
The Roots of Obama's Rage

The real Obama is a man shaped by experiences far different from those of most Americans; he is a much stranger, more determined, and exponentially more dangerous man than you'd ever imagined. He is not motivated by the civil rights struggles of African Americans in the 1960sthose battles leave him wholly untouched. He is not motivated by the socialist or Marxist propaganda that hypnotized a whole generation of wooly minded academics and condescending liberals those concepts also leave him cold.

What really motivates Barack Obama is an inherited rage an often masked, but profound rage that comes from his African father; an anticolonialist rage against Western dominance, and most especially against the wealth and power of the very nation Barack Obama now leads. It is this rage that explains the previously inexplicable, and that gives us a startling look at what might lie ahead.

In The Roots of Obama's Rage you'll learn: Why Obama's economic policies are actually designed to make America poorer compared to the rest of the world Why Obama will welcome a nuclear Iran Why Obama sees America as a rogue nation worse than North Korea The real reason Obama banished a bust of Winston Churchill from the White House and ordered NASA to praise the scientific contributions of Muslims Why Obama would like to make America's superpower status a thing of the past

Stunning, provocative, original, and telling no one has better diagnosed who Obama is, what he intends to do, and why he poses an existential threat to America than Dinesh D'Souza in The Roots of Obama's Rage.

Huh, what are they using the millions of gallons being produced for?
Don't tell me they have made it a new additive in our drinking water?

Kinda makes you want to wrap your lips around an exhaust pipe and start taking deep breaths, don't it?

One thing, they have made the toxins and poisons almost odorless, tasteless -- in all reality "invisible" to the avg person.

Since morons, such as those supporting their own poisoning, here, have demonstrated, if you can't see it, it can't hurt kill you ...

But then, there are people with real backgrounds in the sciences who know better ... it is just unfortunate that the morons support of their own deaths and diminished health has dire consequences for those ...

Still living in the past, John.

Production and properties

MTBE is manufactured via the chemical reaction of methanol and isobutylene. Methanol is derived from natural gas, and isobutylene is derived from butane obtained from crude oil or natural gas, thus MTBE is derived from fossil fuels. In the United States, it was produced in very large quantities (more than 200,000 barrels per day in 1999) during its use as a fuel additive.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Methyl_tert-butyl_ether

What part of "WAS PRODUCED" do you not understand?

Legislation and litigation in the U.S.
MTBE is banned in the US states of California and New York. MTBE consumption, banned the chemical starting January 1, 2004, and as of September 2005, twenty-five states had signed legislation banning MTBE.
...
In 2000, the U.S. EPA drafted plans to phase out the use of MTBE nationwide over four years.

MTBE has been replaced by ethanol in many states. Mandated by law.
Among many reasons, for its toxicity. That, and ethanol does the same thing for less money.

In fact, ethanol was recommended as an anti-knock compound in the 20's, but Rockefeller would not ceed 10% of the nations' gas tanks to farmers or other non Standard-Oil production. This is where tetraethyl lead came from. Anti-knock, produced by an amalgamation of GM, E.I.

DuPont and Standard Oil...the Ethyl Corporation.

Had Rockefeller not prevailed, there woud never have been lead in gasoline, as it's never really been needed. Prior to introduction of leaded gasoline, engine castings were harder, containing more nickel. Valve recession was not a problem, and today, still isn't among drivers of Studebaker, Nash, Hudson and some early AMC models, which still use the high nickel castings.

But the inclusion of lead in gasoline, solved three problems for the auto industry. 1) leaded gas allowed cheaper castings for manufacturers, 2) end of pre-ignition engine knock, 3) preclusion of non-Standard Oil products in gasolines.

Had ethanol been used at the outset, none of the problems of leaded gas, valve seat recession, and production of many toxic exhaust chemicals would never have existed. And MTBE would never have been created.

Now, this isn't to say that ethanol is the end-all to our problems, it's not. But as an anti-knock compound, and oxygenation additive, it's an elegant, and non toxic solution. And it has replaced MTBE in gasoline in many, if not most, regions.

Your information, while correct, is somewhat outdated.

One other thing. While the rest of the gasoline producing petroleum industry was embracing tetraethyl lead, one company, American Oil, resisted. And, American Oil gasolines, rebranded AMOCO, before acquisition by Standard Oil, never had lead. Using a variety of other additives to control engine knock. And doing it at lower cost per gallon.

Absurdity doesn't serve your arguments. Much of the MTBE, as with the volume of tetraethyl lead, is shipped overseas where both are still used in gasoline.

It isn't any more susceptible than any other OS or hardware platform.
But, ignorance may make it seem that way.

Truth is, anyone owning a PC is GOD over the machine, there are no limits on you, now and then, when you can do ESPECIALLY STUPID things, windows will give you are warning or two ... most don't understand these warnings, don't care about the warnings, don't even read the warnings
... they are of the mindset "everyone and every thing is here to take care of me and keep me out of trouble."

Truth is, if you are a computer moron, you should either own a MAC or have a system administrator on a main frame keeping you from GOD access to the machine and being able to screw it up.

PC is an open system, it is created for educated people who understand computers ... the ego of most force them to claim they are ... obviously they are not ...

Some don'ts on a PC:

1) Don't download/install software from untrusted sources.

2) If you are not computer literate, buy programs/apps and don't use free ones, UNLESS from a trusted source.

3) Run a virus and malware scanner, they will assist you in keeping you safe from yourself.

4) DO NOT EVER, EVER, EVER, EVER, EVER, ... allow anyone to use administrator status on your machine who is not computer literate.

System administrators will almost NEVER allow you to install your own software on their mainframes ... they know morons will shortly be causing them all sorts of problems.

MAC/Apple is the same, their platform is not open, not easy to use free apps/software on, not easy to write your own software for ... indeed, they know 90+% of the people using their hardware are morons, not to be trusted to do anything which apple does not approve of, and best kept from EVER being allowed administrator status on their hardware ...

A PC is like everything else in the world, not safe to use unless you are capable of using it ... but then an auto, truck, guns, industrial equipment of all types, skill saws, ladders, etc. are VERY MUCH THE SAME AS A PC -- KNOW HOW TO USE THEM AND THERE IS NO PROBLEM ... DON'T AND YOU CAN KILL YOURSELF!!!

Well, will a PC, you really can't kill yourself, but you can be forced to call someone to fix it which does know how to operate it ...

In closing, DON'T EVER USE THE ADMIN ACCOUNT ... DUMMY!!!

Have someone set you up a user account and limit your actions and use to that allowed by a MAC or user on a mainframe ...

JS

I have two radios right here. They both have giant dimpled knobs. Both knobs have adjustable "drag" in fact. The computer generates the text and helps me log. I'm constantly tweaking real knobs while chasing faint traces on the waterfall.

And you, just another retard on the short bus.

All of my DX is better than your DX no matter what I do.

Well, I cann assure most everyone here that I've done 100% of my DX'ing without the help from anyone here, and I've had a moderate amount of success.

You claim to be 'Cherokee'... I think you're just 'Wannabee'...

No need to do anything more productive than cash the checks, invest the money, do some DX'ing, and rile up the mentally ill Canucks!

Why is it that you queers always seem to SIGH a lot? (1)

LOLOLOLOLOLOL... what a damn dumb cunt you are!

who inhabit the lace we call RRS.

You, on the other hand are nothing more than a sorry little homosexual 'tard

Liar, liar, pantalunes on fire! (1)

New history will be made when we crush CanaDuh!

I really don't want to say this, my many shortwave friends, but I find that I am giving up far to much of my increasingly valuable time here on RRS trying to educate the faux, the debutantes, and those who tote..

Therefore, I've simply decided to give up RRS.

Goodbye, I sincerely hope that you all find your niche in the world of SW.

It is important not to let morons go wild with facts and figures, they are not just a danger to themselves, but to everyone, including yourself, also.

Here is a chart of MTBE production in the USA, to date:
http://www.cs-grainmarketconsulting.com/tools/Ethanol%20Production%20and%20Use%207-28-11.p df

It is important to note that these are for USA. Since most production of most products/chemicals/equipment/etc. has declined and gone to foreign production, one would be on firm ground if suspecting the same for MTBE.

Also, in countries such as china meaningful facts and figures are hard to come by and of questionable worth and accuracy.

And, it would be wise to realize, MTBE released anywhere in the world is a danger to us here. Just as the sulfur, nitrous oxides, heavy metals, toxic chemicals/compounds, radiation, etc. introduced into the atmosphere find there way onboard USA shores, so does MTBE ...

On, simply, in a nutshell, one would have to have the facts and figures of MTBE production, use, etc. worldwide to make a correct appraisal of the dangers presented to us here ... one thing I am certain of, when still employed in industry and privy to these facts and figures, and people whose job it was to know these facts and figures, there was not a water source on the planet which did not contain some miniscule trace of MBTE ...

But, I do NOT find it any more comforting that we are now pumping sugars and food though our gas tanks ... I would think only morons escape the obvious and probably dangers/repercussions of that/those dangerous practice(s.) If there were no hunger in the world, no starvation, no shortages and future shortage of the fertilizers necessary for food production, over use of toxic chemicals, herbicides, pesticides, etc., being deployed in this lunacy ... perhaps I could reconsider ... until then, it is just another form of soft-kill which makes some rich and some dead ...

All of my old radios (I could probally Mop UP at eBay) have real physical knobs on them, except for two digital radios I bought at Goodwill years ago.My real old tee vee sets have real physical knobs on them too.I have an old 'radio' which isn't a radio.It is thick and heavy, it is 100 percent made of wood with a piece of grill cloth where a speaker would be.I reckon somebody made it for a school shop project, or whatever.Yep, I bought it at Goodwill too, years and years ago.

These are production figures. Made in USA, yes. But use...that's a different story. From your own document, here:

"MTBE monthly usage was 1,821 thousand barrels, which was up 31.2% from 1,388 thousand barrels per month a year ago, and up from 1,733 thousand barrels per month last month. The MTBE usage includes 1,382 thousand barrels that were exported, versus 1,780 thousand barrels exported last month."

Of the 1821 thousand barrels produced, 1780 thousand barrels were exported. Leaving 41 thousand barrels remaining in the US. Of that, some is use, some is reserved stock.

The point being, and the point documented, according to your own figures, that ethanol has replaced MTBE in the US as the dominant oxygenation compound in gasoline. And it's use has been cut by a couple orders of magnitude.

Again, you seem to be arguing outdated data.

There's no air anywhere on the planet that doesn't contain a measureably trace of cigarette smoke, either. So?

Corn is a food, indeed. And a good chunk of production of corn is going into non-food products. That's true. But the amount going into gasoline is less than that going into plastic packaging, Duracell and Energizer batteries, many adhesives, body powders, Bounce dryer sheets, breath sprays, charcoal briquettes, chicken, instant coffee, contact lens solution, dental fillings and cements, the wax on fresh fruits and vegetables, hair products, Herbal Essence products, hand lotions, paper containers, pesticide powders, pickles, plastic food containers, rice, soaps, diswashing detergents, suntan lotions, and toothpaste. To name a few.

Much corn is produced specifically for non-food applications. There are hybrids dedicated to these applications which are not suitable as food for humans. Or many animals. And these hybrids are not planted by growers producing food.

The dangers of which you speak are becoming irrelevant every day, as more industrial corn is planted, reducing the diversion of food into non comestible products.

Again, you seem to be arguing data out of date. And ad-homs at that.

You're trippin'. I have an R75 on top of a K3. Orange dials with gray numbers. The Icom's on 10140 USB; the Elecraft's on 18100 RTTY. They are real three dimensional physical radios connected to massive amounts of wire covering the sky above my house.

"The devil's in the details," John; and the details show you are either misunderstanding what you read, or are lying pout your ass!

From your very own source comes:

"MTBE monthly usage was 1,821 thousand barrels, which was up 31.2%
from 1,388 thousand barrels per month a year ago, and up from 1,733 thousand barrels per month last month. The MTBE usage includes 1,382 thousand barrels that were exported, versus 1,780 thousand barrels exported last month."

--Ibid.

That means 76% of the production was exported (to-wit: OCONUS) "this month" and 102% was exported "last month."

"Do you want to change your bullshit story, sir?"
--Deputy US Marshal Sam Gerard

"Come on, don't give us none of your bullshit stories huh?...I'm pretty much ODing on all your bullshit stories!"

Sounds like something of importance, until you realize that we are ever increasingly importing GASOLINE, not oil to produce the gasoline from, but finished product, so again, you would have to know how much MTBE was in the imported gasoline, in foreign production/use, etc. ...

The use of MTBE, under scrutiny, will find a million ways to escape that scrutiny ... it is obvious, what practices have been done in the past, will be repeated now and into the future ... a main tool of criminals is obfuscation and "the shell game."

And, like I said, until we know the production and use of MTBE worldwide, we can't even begin to fathom if the MTBE in our ground water will be diminishing, or not ... or, in the arctic ice caps, glaciers, ocean waters, etc.

Anyway you cut it, any fancy obfuscations you wish to hang on it, automobiles are the single largest cause of pollution, DUH!: http://www.epa.gov/oms/consumer/05-autos.pdf

... and this doesn't even take into consideration any additives which may, or may not, be present in it.

I personally add "Mystery Oil" to every tank of my gas, it lubricates the over head valves, valve guides, rings, cylinder wall, cleans injectors, fuel pump, etc. ... greatly increasing the octane by slowing burn and decreasing "knock", etc. ... plus a good dose of Berrymans' Chemtool every couple of tanks or two ... my neighbor drop a few mothballs in every tank to stop knock and burn regular in their auto which requires premium gas ... since I don't buy the more expensive techroline gas from chevron, there is about an ounce of tolulene in every tank I burn ... when the companies "junked" the gas, we who like high performance engines responded with fixes ...

JS

Genius or not, Hilton spends more in a month than most earn in a year.
With that spending, regardless of what she purchases, she is supporting the jobs that entail creating whatever products she buys plus paying even more taxes such as sales and excise.
A "drain on resources"?
Whatever "resources" she uses she pays for, unlike many of those JS claims she is harming.
People such as Hilton benefit the nation better by spending their fortunes, a fact that cannot be denied as she is well known for her spending sprees, than by simply handing it over to the government to be eaten up by the bureaucrats. If Hilton buys $100,000 in merchandise then she is actively putting that $100,000 directly into the economy. If she handed it over to the government then virtually none of it will return to the economy/general population.

Cool, and you can show me those cancer deaths were caused by leakages of MTBE from storage tanks in the USA?

Otherwise, your just flapping your lips.

Yea, and it should also be noted that the Gasoline imported is RAW Gasoline without additives. See the Additive package isn't added until it's being loaded on the truck for shipment to the retailer.

So, once again, your information is somewhat lacking in applicability.

In a word...none. Gasoline is imported in a raw state. That is, without additives. It is the raw distillate from the refinery. It is also, in fact, undifferentiated by brand. It is only 'gasoline.' And the same gasoline goes into every tank. The difference is that each brand, each grade, has its own, proprietary, additives. Which will include xylenes, ethanol, dyes, and combustion rate inhibitors. Those are added at the depot. But they are not included in the imported gasoline.

So, we know precisely how much MTBE is in imported gasoline--Zero.

COMPUTER HUMOR:

If cars followed the same development cycle as computers, a Rolls-Royce would today cost $100, get a million miles per gallon, and stall every few days.

Being an expert is more than understanding how a computer is supposed to work. Expertise is gained by investigating why a computer doesn't work.

Computers make it easier to do a lot of things, but most of the things they make it easier to do don't need to be done.

PROGRAM = A series of instructions inside a computer that turns your input into error messages.

Imagine if sometimes your shoes exploded when you tie them the usual way. This happens all the time with computers, and nobody thinks of complaining.

A computer lets you make more mistakes faster than any invention in history.

There is only one satisfying way to boot a computer.

You mean that you question that MTBE is a carcinogen? That it does not cause cancer?

Why don't you just verify it yourself, it is well documented ... if you mean because any single death cannot be linked to its' use or presence, you are an imbecile ... but then, you already knew that and found it acceptable, else we would not have seen such a BS question/statement.

That is very much like, "Can you prove the high mercury levels in fish are killing anyone?" Or, "Can you prove it is the high radiation released by the jap meltdown has/is/will cause cancer in anyone?"

Frankly, don't your realize only morons ask such question or attempt to base "proofs" on them? -- if not, what is the point of anyone discussing anything with you ...

I missed the worldwide production figures as to how much is being produced today ... indeed, they seem difficult to find ... would you mind reposting them so I can see it is no longer a problem?

Let me be more blunt, out-of-sight-out-of-mind-idiots do not impress me ...:

"In 2006, due to litigation and liability fears, the blending of MTBE into gasoline in the United States was discontinued. The European Union, in contrast to the United States, has affirmed the continued use of ethers in gasoline blending. The Middle East continues as a large producer and consumer of MTBE. Also, South America (excluding Brazil), Mexico, and a large portion of Asia continue to be consumers of MTBE.
Europe, South America, and Asia all support a continued global market for ethers in the gasoline pool, affording several major MTBE producers in the USA to continue to operate as export-only facilities. In addition, there are numerous world-scale MTBE plants in the Middle East and Asia that service this global market.
The current global production capacity is estimated to be approximately 18 million metric tons per year."

http://jordan-associates.com/Ethers_Study_2010/2010%20Ethers%20Prospectus%20Package.pdf

However, your "BS willingness" to simply dismiss anything you don't "feel" is correct is duly noted, however, the credibility of what you have to say suffers, greatly, for it ... but, look around, there is/are and abundance of such idiots as yourself -- indeed, that may be the real problem, in a nutshell ... and, apparently, your moronic buddies seem to think fact and truth is simply a matter of such unfounded beliefs ...

WE "produce"; SOMEONE ELSE "uses:" too simple a concept for you to understand, John?

See if you can "compress" (ISJ <g>) this, John:

"MTBE is now banned from use in gasoline in the USA, due to studies that revealed it causes groundwater contamination and cancer, primarily due to leakage from underground storage tanks."

"Several countries outside the USA still continue to use MTBE in gasoline."
...
"MTBE is no longer allowed in gasoline dispensed at public gas pumps"
...
http://www.fueltestkit.com/ethanol_mtbe_vs_non_alcohol_gas.htm

So, John; feel free to seek out those "several (other) countries and try to get them onboard. <snicker>

"Confronting Liberals with the facts of reality is very much akin to clubbing baby seals. It gets boring after a while, but because Liberals are so stupid it is easy work."

Additive packages are added to the mix when pumped into the tanker for delivery to the retailer. Until then it's all just raw unadulterated gasoline as it comes from the refinery.

So it's no longer really a serious issue in the USA anymore then is it.

Oh, and this would also seem to confirm that the gasoline we import doesn't have MTBE either.

So what problem are you trying to solve?

So clearly your comments to him doesn't really apply since the thing you're bitching about, isn't being used generally in gasoline anymore.

Being Obama

What makes President Obama's executive passivity so interesting is that it seems to be a symptom not of policy uncertainty, but of personal narcissism. The president is free to delegate the tasks of the president because he's already done the important job of simply showing up.

President Obama never tires of inserting himself into measurement of the world around him.

When people don't appreciate how important the job of being Barack Obama is, our president can get a little testy. "As time passes, you start taking it for granted that a guy named Barack Hussein Obama is president of the United States," he told a group of donors in March. "But we should never take it for granted. . . . I hope that all of you still feel that sense of excitement and that sense of possibility." Last November he met with Afghanistan's president, Hamid Karzai, who began his remarks by thanking the president for setting the "tone right" for their talks. Obama huffed, "That was my goal. Every once in a while, I do things right." ...

Bill Clinton's vanity was that he wished he could have been at the center of a world historical event. Barack Obama's vanity is that he believes he is a world historical event. And the greatness of his being dwarfs any necessity to establish greatness through action. That's why, despite his passivity as president, we're likely to see a much more vigorous Obama in the coming months as he switches from governing to campaigning. However ambivalent he may be about leading the country, arguing for the indispensability of Barack Obama is the one project that has always commanded his full attention.

History repeats itself, first as Tragedy (Clinton), then as FARCE (OBAMA).

Yes, he has allowed generals to run wars - very different from Carter who micro-managed the country.

The liberals don't love him. Liberals feel betrayed by him.

The right hate by labels. Hollywood is evil - unless an actor is a Republican. Democrats are evil socialists by definition.

Using about 30' of external random wire with the Sony. The Grundig G5 has the best noise-to-sensitivity ratio with just the built-in antenna rod and often picks up signals missed by the Sony.Local noise from ATT-Universe systems seems to also be a lot less noticeable on the Grundig.

or STALIN!

When Josef Stalin was on his deathbed he called in two likely successors, to test which one of the two had a better knack for ruling the country.

He ordered two birds to be brought in and presented one bird to each of the two candidates. The first one grabbed the bird, but was so afraid that the bird could free himself from his grip and fly away that he squeezed
his hand very hard, and when he opened his palm, the bird was dead.

Seeing the disapproving look on Stalin's face and being afraid to repeat his rival's mistake, the second candidate loosened his grip so much that the bird freed himself and flew away.

Stalin looked at both of them scornfully. "Bring me a bird!" he ordered.
They did. Stalin took the bird by its legs and slowly, one by one, he plucked all the feathers from the bird's little body.

Then he opened his palm. The bird was laying there naked, shivering, helpless. Stalin looked at him, smiled gently and said,
"You see... and he is even thankful for the human warmth coming out of my palm."

Why shouldn't THINGS be taken from you in the name of the Common Good?
Why shouldn't those who Govern have Rights that you as citizen do not

A World Safe For Socialism

A World Safe for Socialism is one where anyone can get away with anything in the name of gov't, where everything is owned by everyone and enjoyed by none.

Bill Clinton should be remembered for delivering on EXACTLY PRECISELY what he promised:

"to leave now we would send a message to terrorists and other potential adversaries around the world that they can change our policies by killing our people.
It would be open season on Americans."
-- Bill Clinton '93
just before he pulled out of Somalia.

History repeats itself first as Clinton Tragedy, then as OBAMA FARCE!

To abandon this area now -- and to rely only on efforts against alQaeda from a distance -- would significantly hamper our ability to keep the pressure on al Qaeda, and create an UNACCEPTABLE RISK of additional attacks on our homeland and our allies.
-- OBAMA'09

This is Clinton's Bridge to the 21st Century.

A legacy which is no legacy, because it embodies no legitimacy.
A world which is no world, because no one's rights are secure.

DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEMAND ACCOUNTABILITY.
DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY. IMPEACH OBAMA.

LIBs. What price their Vision?

BETRAYAL is the sine qua non of Liberalism.

As OBAMA prepares for the repeat of 911 to unify his base and to squelch all meaningful opposition what else can we say except:
Pity for the Guilty is TREASON to the Innocent.

IT REALLY IS AS SIMPLE AS THAT.

LIBs seek equivocation with an evil which has no justification, nor does it seek any.
And that's exactly-precisely what they will get.
This is Clinton's Bridge to the 21st Century.

"I have advocated engagement with our enemies"
-- Hillary'07.

I believe in evil and I think that there are evil people in the world.
-- Hillary'93

It would be wrong to cut off contact with the terror group just because they may have killed people "in a way that we hate."
-- Bill Clinton'06

LIBs plead for a Morality which holds COMPROMISE as its standard of Value, making it possible to judge Virtue on the basis of the number of Values which one is willing to Betray.

Conduct Unbecoming Part I

Over the next two years, however, my experiences in the Clinton White House turned my gratitude and awe into shock, revulsion, and sorrow as I experienced the cavalier and self-serving way Clinton went about the business of running our country. I wrote my first book, Dereliction of Duty, documenting our former President's contempt for the military, his indifference to important issues except insofar as they served his own political or personal purposes, and his failure to accept his responsibilities as our commander-in-chief. Indeed, it is my sincere belief that the dereliction of duty and negligence of Bill Clinton paved the way for the tragic events and deaths of September 11, 2001.

http://www.humanevents.com/article.php?id=38893
Obama's Secret Link to Hamas, Part II

At the time I left my position in the Clinton White House I certainly couldn't have imagined we'd elect anyone more inept than Bill Clinton. Nor could I have predicted that just seven years after we'd been attacked and gone to war, we'd elect the most radical left-wing president in our nation's history. Few seem to have noticed, until recently, that Barack Obama is inclined to dispense with the key precepts our forefathers valued: a robust defense of American sovereignty and our national interest for one; limited government for another; fiscal prudence for a third.

DESERVE PEACE.
DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY.

THE CONSEQUENCE OF GOOD MEN DOING ABSOLUTELY NOTHING IS ALL TO CLEAR.

If a President of the United States ever lied to the American people he should resign.
-- William J. Clinton, 1974

There is an IHOP restaurant (Restauranti, if you are Italian) on Greenway Drive, right across from the Dangerous Walmart store, a mile and a half South of doggy's couch.I doubt if any of the IHOP restaurants around here will ever need to hire any Bouncers.

My 43' vertical has an automatic tuner at the feed-point, 9 feet above the ground. I physically disconnect the vertical wire. The horizontal wires (radials) remain connected to the tuner and thus to the LMR400UF that goes to my shack window in the house below. I have an AD-2 grounding switch with gas plug at my elbow as I type. The shack is well grounded with 3 8' rods plus "poultry netting" flat on the ground along the fenceline. The path from my transceiver to Ground Proper is less than 2 meters. I have meticulously avoided letting "ground" anywhere near my vertical dipoles. Other than the coax shield on the input to the tuner, the 43' vertical is floating 9' in the air. You can get by on half a dozen radials this way.

My GAP Titan DX vertical passes through a Diamond gas pill protector at the feed-through. The loops have no protection at the moment. One goes to my ICOM R75, the other to my Drake SW2. I will probably switch these over to RG-6 75 Ohm after the baluns, and use cheesy CATV grounders.

We get a thunderstorm about once every 2 years here; interesting microclimates in the canyons...

All this from someone who claims :
"I personally add "Mystery Oil" to every tank of my gas, it lubricates the over head valves, valve guides, rings, cylinder wall, cleans injectors, fuel pump, etc. ... greatly increasing the octane by slowing

burn and decreasing "knock", etc. ... plus a good dose of Berrymans' Chemtool every couple of tanks or two ... my neighbor drop a few mothballs in every tank to stop knock and burn regular in their auto which requires premium gas ... since I don't buy the more expensive techroline gas from chevron, there is about an ounce of tolulene in every tank I burn ... when the companies "junked" the gas, we who like high performance engines responded with fixes ...
Regards,
JS "

"Mystery Oil" & Berrymans' Chemtool" & "Tolulene"
"we who like high performance engines responded with fixes ..."

I love it when morons attempt to argue "wrong to right", it is funny, expensive to the morons, and often the moron ends up spouting tons of more moronic BS -- and wondering why everyone is laughing and in such good humor ... :-)

I have several young friends that started out with SDR type radios and as soon as they could, they bought a "big knob" radio, as they are much more pleasnt to actually tune around with, and use the SDR type radios to sit on freqs or to decode some diigital mode. Using a mouse or a keyboard to tune a radio is awkward at best, and horrible at the worst.
One of them has my old Icom R71a that I bought on Ebay years ago that seldom worked for a super cheap price. I had it working fine in minutes, it was just a bad ground. The only thing wrong with it was it reeked of cigarette smoke. I put the case in the dishwasher, it came out a totally different color, and took the front panel and knobs and put them in warm soapy water that went from clear to looking like coffee in a half hour.
It still has a very slight tobacco smell 7 or so years later, but it's not too bad and looks and works great. It had been modded by EEB when bought new, and had the FL-44 filter in it. A total shock to me when I started taking it apart, as that filter is expensive.

Then there are the radios with knobs, but with unpleasant menus to deal with, kind of a half good/half bad set up that needed to be better thought out before they built it.

Most of the Windows users I know regard Linux as a curiosity, most likely because they aren't really "computer people" and don't much care about trying new software. On the other hand, the Apple users I know seem to despise Linux and I've never quite understood that. Aren't Linux and the various incarnations of Apple's OS both children of Unix? What gives?

Back in the 1970s, a local area guy had a nice one cylinder BMW Motorcycle for sale for $700.00.I passed on that.I have a made in Germany 1976 SACHS Westlake Moped, it only has an original 16 miles on it, the tires are dry rotted.I bought it for $300.00 years ago from an old guy who had two of them he bought for his grand daughters to

In my opinion, if you build your own computer from scratch, you can make

Also because it is exceptionally simple to use. It is designed for the end user. Linux may well be a "superior" OS in some respects, but one of them is not its ease of adding new applications, nor its network interoperability with Windows based systems on the same network. I will admit that Linux has become a lot more hardware friendly. The first few times I tried it, you had to pretty much have the hardware it was written for, or needed to know how to write your own drivers. The GUI has also become better over time, but for most who are not computer geeks (and some of us that are), it's still not all that friendly to the end user.

Hello. I have a number of SW radios to sell. I also have a Sangean CC radio for sale. It is in very good condition. Not sure of price but somewhere in the $40 range is what I was thinking. Here are the SW radios that I have:

Bearcat DX-1000
Radio Shack DX-440
Radio Shack DX-370

The Bearcat is in good condition with slight oxidation on the handle(s) and the main tuning knob is a bit wobbly but works just fine. $125 plus shipping. I have it listed on eham site and here is actual picture of radio:

http://www.eham.net/data/classifieds/images/351772.jpg

The DX-440 is in great working condition and good cosmetic condition. $70 plus postage.

I am asking $35 for the DX-370 plus postage.

I have a friend who's a gamer. Whenever he upgrades his gaming machine we put the old one in the studio and run Ubuntu Studio on it.

Personally, I get a mid-range BCS motherboard and last year's flavor of the month processor, and an 80 Plus PSU and I'm off. Memory costs nothing. Linux costs nothing.

My ham radio computer is one of those $200 WalMart boxes from about 5 years ago.

I find it way easier to use than Windows, but then again I have congenital brain damage.

If there are compatibility issues, it's almost always on the Windows end.
The web is Unix based.

For personal use the only thing Windows excels [pun] at is games that require DirectX. For some business you need the Photoshop type apps

For overall ease I'd have to go with an Ubuntu 2010. To run any machine ever built, I'd use Puppy 420. If you like waiting on hold for secret codes, buy Windows.

The DX-1000 is a great radio. Some dipshit reviewer gave it bad marks because he didn't like the buttons and killed it. I think Uniden still services them for a ridiculously low flat rate.

A: OBAMA was the first $BILLION candidate who spent $1Billion/hour in the first 100 days of office accomplishing ABSOLUTELY NOTHING.

If it is Peace that you want, it is Dictatorship you must oppose;
if it is WAR that you wish to prevent, it is the expropriation of private capital you must oppose. War, in fact, is only possible when the wealth of the nation is held by it's leaders rather than rightly used by its citizens.

OBAMA having presided over the single largest expropriation in the history of History guarentees a WAR BEYOND ALL HISTORICAL PRECIDENT.
Has he disappointed in this respect? and it's not over yet.
NOBEL PEACE PRIZE MY ASS...

DESERVE FREEDOM.
DEFEAT LIB STRATEGIC INSANITY. IMPEACH OBAMA.

Great radio?

Now you've gone and lost any credibility you had. The Dx-1000 was/is a

That's the trouble with most people on all sides of the political spectrum.

Here's an article that compares Reagan's tax reform bill with Obama's proposed tax reform bill.

Got to agree with BDK. It was a dog. Right up there with the Panasonic B300 I had about the same time.

I'm still looking to try a Magnavox D2999,

That may have been a QC issue. I bought one used, got it aligned at the factory, and it worked great. The rotary encoder failed eventually. It would tune down to 10 KHz, so you could listen to 19 KHz SCAs on it. I traded it and a DX-302 for two R390A receivers (a Stewart Warner and a Motorola).

Well, it was Uniden, circa, what, 1979 or 80, something like that?

Mine went seiously deaf and went to the factory and I sold it soon after that, as I had several other recievers that were much much better.

The 302 was another dog, but it was built a lot better than the DX-1000. That silver painted plastic is crap, and I was sad to see my laptop had some of it right where your hands go, so now that it's a senior citizen, there are two patches where the silver paint is gone. I see a lot of 300's and 302's at hamfests in good shape, at least cosmetically. Mine was modded by the original owner, and like a lot of people, he was a bit clumsy with the soldering iron, and cooked two caps causing alternating dead bands above 9MHZ. It took a couple of trips to the service center, and about $60 to find it. Of course, the original owner denied doing anything to the radio at all, even though be mentioned in a letter to someone that he did the mod and "had problems". After that, I didn't believe a thing he said. After it came back, I kept it for about six months, then sold it to help pay for my Kenwood R5000, or my NRD-525, bought about the same time. I don't know where the R5000 is, but the NRD is going strong at age 25.

Using Celestrak for the Keplerian elements and the 'Orbitron' tracking program, you can see UARS track. The only problem may be that the orbit is decaying so fast that the Keps cannot be updated often enough.

As I type this (2130 UTC), UARS now on an ascending pass in the southern Pacific well off the coast of Chile, soon to be over Central America and then Cuba.

IMO, in at least one specific case this article is HIGHLY misleading, one might even say deceitful.

Under Reagan, capital gains tax was LOWERED.

Yet the article makes it sound like the INCREASE proposed by Obama is the same thing Reagan did.

So right off, I would have to challenge ANY claims made by this article as likely being twisted, slanted, or outright deception.

There are just two types of idiots, really. But, they make up a lot of names for themselves -- democans/republicrats, liberals/conservatives, right-wing/left-wing, etc.

Then there is the rest of the world, who bothers with anyone who wishes to engage politics with same mentality on a silly game like football? Pick a team, root for it, declare yourself a "winner" or "loser" and watch the same action, on the same field, with just two differently named teams, again ... and again ... and again ... and again ...

ROFLOL!

But hey, if you can fool enough to never realize it is imbecilic, you have a lot of imbeciles to pal up with!

"Prominent Scientist Tells Congress: Earth in ‘CO2 Famine’

Washington, DC - Award-winning Princeton University Physicist Dr. Will Happer declared man-made global warming fears “mistaken” and noted that the Earth was currently in a “CO2 famine now.” Happer, who has published over 200 peer-reviewed scientific papers, made his remarks during today’s Environment and Public Works Full Committee Hearing entitled “Update on the Latest Global Warming Science.”

“Many people don’t realize that over geological time, we’re really in a CO2 famine now. Almost never has CO2 levels been as low as it has been in the Holocene (geologic epoch) - 280 (parts per million - ppm) - that’s unheard of. Most of the time [CO2 levels] have been at least 1000 (ppm) and it’s been quite a bit higher than that,” Happer told the Senate Committee. To read Happer’s complete opening statement click here: [Also: See Inhofe Warns of Costs of Massive $6.7 Trillion ‘Climate Bailout’ & ‘Consensus’ in Collapse: Japanese scientists make ‘dramatic break’ with UN hypothesis of man-made warming! “Earth was just fine in those times,” Happer added. :The oceans were fine, plants grew, animals grew fine. So it’s baffling to me that we’re so frightened of getting nowhere close to where we started,” Happer explained. Happer also noted that “the number of [skeptical scientists] with the courage to speak out is growing” and he warned “children should not be force-fed propaganda, masquerading as science.” "

Right, like how no car has a factory motor of more than 300kW (ie 400Hp), or how no car has a motor that produces more than 50HP.

Yea, some real 'facts' there dipshit.

More like utter ignorance and then the stupidity to refuse to accept you're wrong when the ACTUAL FACTS are presented.

So, don't say you post the facts, because either you don't know the facts....or you're a liar.

Cut him some slack. Few have ever heard of the Viper.

Or the Cobra. Or Dodge Challenger. Or the Corvette Z06. Or ZR1.

Or the standard Corvette.

Or the Porsche Cayenne Turbo.

Or BMW M5. Or M6. Or the M3, for that matter.

Not to mention the Mercedes-Benz SL600.

Or the Aston Martin V8 Vantage. Or the Audi R8.

Or the Nissan GT-R.

No, but a recent girlfriend had iTunes and I found it to be nightmarish compared with my simple method of using Winamp and just putting mp3s in folders like any other files -- so I never thought about it.

Is there an advantage, you think, to getting it on iTunes?

Liberty Net: September 17, 2011

http://3950.net/2011/09/liberty-net-september-17-2011/

by Kevin Strom, WB4AIO

THE LIBERTY NET seems to get several new check-ins every week ï¿½ so, even when regular participants are away temporarily, the discussions nevertheless continue to grow in breadth and depth. From economics and demographics to history and health, free thought reigns supreme ï¿½ so please check in and add your voice to the exchange!

Here are some of the ideas discussed this time on amateur radioï¿½s most exciting net:

ï¿½ More and more voices are calling for a new 9/11 investigation, and almost no intelligent person fully accepts the official story. But when a long-time Establishment hack like Bob Graham joins the call, one has to wonder ï¿½ has he had an attack of conscience? ï¿½ or does someone want to control and divert any new inquiry? (28 minutes)

ï¿½ Why has the Washington regimeï¿½s ï¿½jobs czarï¿½ invested five billion dollars in China, thereby sending thousands of jobs out of this country? (1 hour 38 minutes)

That sounds pretty destructive, but ï¿½ since that military is engaged in numerous illegal wars for Israel, brutalizes and sacrifices poor American kids for no good reason, slaughters innocent people by the thousands who never were a threat to us, and is bankrupting us at an ever-accelerating rate ï¿½ maybe its destruction isnï¿½t such a bad idea. (1 hour 43 minutes)

ï¿½ As White people have fled and been replaced by Third Worlders, huge areas of formerly-thriving Detroit have been transformed into a post-apocalyptic wasteland right out of Planet of the Apes. (1 hour 50 minutes)

You can find the Liberty Net on 75 meters, almost always somewhere between 3950 and 3999 kHz SSB, every Saturday night at 10PM Eastern Time. Please check in, and also listen live on the Internet via N2IRJ (N2SAGï¿½s feed is down temporarily), or listen at your leisure via the mp3 files posted here at http://3950.net every week. The audio files are usually posted on the Sunday morning following the net ï¿½ youï¿½ll always see the latest file near the top of the right column ï¿½ just click to listen or download.

Thanks to W1WCR for running the Liberty Net for over three decades, and thanks to N2IRJ and N2SAG for giving the net a powerful online presence.

Yes. Dramatically wider exposure and distribution.

maps. NASA Select doesn't do news that ain't in a flight plan.

Ubuntu Studio uses a realtime kernel and a suite of production applications for audio, video and graphic design. There is a relatively large user base, resulting in prompt bug-fixes and a community of users who are very experienced and helpful. There is also a Puppy Linux version of studio that runs off a CD, but it doesn't enjoy nearly as much real-time active maintenance. I run my ham radio station on Puppy Linux, I edit on Ubuntu Studio.

That's how republicans relate to their "leaders". Al Gore is just another hippie. We all know the environment has been irretrievably damaged. President Gore's mistake was pretending facts matter to the Great Brainwashed.

There are real dangers and destruction, the jap meltdown, the releases of radiation here, the false flag operations and fear mongering, TSA's perverted assaults on your family and yourself, raising the "safe" levels of toxins in our environment, dumping of toxins, trash, human waste, etc. into the worlds oceans ...

Carbon dioxide levels are just a scam where people are into your pocket book to steal your money, if not for Co2 levels we would all starve to death, it is the carbon cycle with sunlight and elements which provide plants which feed every living organism on the planet ...

People like Al Gore should be shot on the spot, just as an example to those who would propose and support such diabolical lies and criminal actions ... end of story.

No, the kids and technically/politically illiterate are really not a market for the deep thought material which your platform is based on.
If someone requires a different format, .mp3 is an excellent media, from .mp3 it is a simple matter to load up a free converter on a PC and convert to any media you think you need ...

I tend to favor the free VLC player over winamp, plays most stuff right out of the box, plus, any codec you install is usable by VLC and you can play any format I have ever downloaded from the net. But, winamp is a very decent player ... one thing to avoid at all cost is quicktime -- I think of as a virus which can play some audio, video, media files ... I think of itunes as high-school-teenie-bopper territory.

Compared to the uneventful past few years, sunspot activity was truly remarkable this week. Daily sunspot number for September 16 was 173, a level that hasn't been reached since over six years ago, way back on July 5, 2005 in Cycle 23, when the sunspot number was 181.

Solar flux reached 150.1 on September 18. Just six months ago it was slightly higher - 153 on March 7 and 155 on March 8 - but prior to that the only higher number was 157.3 on August 22, 2005, about 7 weeks after the sunspot number of 181.

Average daily sunspot numbers for the past reporting week (Thursday through Wednesday, September 15-21) we up over 45 points from the previous week to 137, and average daily solar flux rose nearly 22 points to 144.

Currently the solar flux and planetary A index forecast from USAF/NOAA calls for solar flux of 155, 160, 165 and 170 on September 23-26, 175 on September 27-30, 130 on October 1, and 135 on October 2-5.

These flux values through September 30 are quite a bit higher than the values predicted a day earlier, and run in the ARRL Letter.

Planetary A index is predicted at 5 on September 23, 15 on September 24-25, 5 and 8 on September 26-27, 5 on September 28-30, 8 on October 1, and 5 on October 2-7.

Geophysical Institute Prague sees quiet conditions September 23-25, quiet to unsettled September 26-27, and quiet again on September 28-29.

At 2323 UTC IPS Radio and Space Services in Australia issue a warning of upcoming geomagnetic disturbance on September 24-25 due to a coronal mass ejection.

You can download the latest (October) edition of WorldRadio Online at http://www.worldradiomagazine.com/ to read this month's Propagation column from Carl Luetzelschwab, K9LA, on pages 30-33. This month's effort uses ray tracings from the Proplab-Pro software (http://www.spacew.com/proplab/) to help explain refraction, absorption and polarization of radio signals.

Today is the Fall Equinox in the Northern Hemisphere. In fact I am writing these words at the exact time of the equinox, right at 0905 UTC on September 23.

Angel Santana, WP3GW of Trujillo Alto, Puerto Rico is excited about all the new solar activity right around the equinox. He wrote, "Almost two weeks ago I did not have much luck on the Work All Europe SSB contest. On 20 and 40 meters I only had 77 QSOs. But last Saturday September 17 at about 1500 UTC 10 meters exploded with European stations. Did someone say sunspot numbers over 100, and everybody got on the air?

"First to work was F4EZJ, then OT4A who even asked if there were a contest, for the fast pace of the contacts. Even worked 5B4AIF and went to 12 meters and worked EA9IB. Returned to 10 and some even answered my call. Later at 2000 UTC went to 12 meters and worked another bunch of Europeans. If this is a preview of the upcoming contest period, we're in for a roll!"

Rob Steenburgh, KA8JBY says the Space Weather Prediction Center now has a Facebook page. Check http://www.facebook.com/pages/NOAA-NWS-Space-Weather-Prediction-Center/232532740131296.

Jeff Hartley, N8II of Shepherdstown, West Virginia wrote: "I knew it was probably going to be a good day (September 16) when 4W6A was the first signal heard on 21295 at around 1200Z; he was not workable, running EUs I couldn't hear. 20 sounded fair, logging BP100 (Taiwan) and BA8AG. Then a quick check of 15 at 1245Z showed 4W6A up to about S4-5 and looking for 'North America only'; after several tries, he was in the log; he was busy. By 1300Z, EU signals were loud on 15 and 12M was opening up to EU. On 12m, I logged 4K9W, OM5DP, and OE3GCU, then checked 10M at 1314Z to find YL2SM S7 running 4/4 Yagis and a KW; he was getting very few CQ answers. At 1416Z I found E21EJC in Thailand signing with a station on 28005 CW. Kob was about S5-6 and gave me a '599, very loud' report, what a surprise! Eventually at 1418Z, I had a nice CW run of stations on 10M as far as the Ukraine and as far north as SP and HA and west as PA. After checking 12M to find good signals from RA3CQ and SK2AT. Starting at 1457Z I was able to run Europeans on 10M phone with some having S9+ signals as far west as EI3JS, north to DJ8CG, and east to 9A1HDE.

"After a long break, I returned to some of the best late day 12M conditions to EU I can ever remember. Between 1856 and 1933Z, I ran off about 25 EU SSB QSOs including SM5FQQ and six SQ/SPs. Everybody was loud; I never got down to the weak ones until right at the end. Then, a check of 10M yielded a SSB QSO with EC1KR at 1935Z who was S7.

"Saturday September 17, the Scandinavian Activity Contest CW started at 1200Z which is only about an hour after sunrise. By 1220Z when I fired up, OH9W is very northern Finland had a good signal on 15. OH was the best place to be in almost all of EU for a while; LAs were very weak and EU stations calling the OHs were much weaker than they were, pretty ideal conditions for the contest! By 1330Z, SMs and LAs were much better and 10M was open over a scatter path beaming 90-120 degrees over southern Africa which persisted until past 1500Z. I managed to make 15 Scandinavian scatter path QSOs on 10; the loudest were good copy about S3-4, but most were right near the noise level. LN3Z and OH3MEP were the loudest. 20M at 1500Z was not very good and the K index was rising; it is 5 as of 2000Z! 40 and 80 were horrible to Scandinavia at 0130Z, but improved quite a bit by 0330Z. There were some loud northern Scandinavians on 20 at 0130Z and others reported 15M open as late as 2300Z."

Jimmy Mahuron, K9JWJ of Salem, Indiana and several other readers sent in a link to an article from NASA Science News titled "The Secret Life of Solar Flares." Read it at http://science.nasa.gov/science-news/science-at-nasa/2011/19sep_secretlives/.

Jon Pollock, K0ZN of De Soto, Kansas writes: "I was on 17 M this evening (September 18) and found signals were extremely strong to both E and W (I live just west of Kansas City) late into the evening. I worked WA2MDF at about 9:30 PM CDT and he was running well over S-9 with 100 W and a 170 ft. end fed long wire. About 30 min. later I worked K6GVG in San Diego at about 10:15 CDT. He was peaking 20 dB over S-9 at times! These are some of the strongest signals I have heard in a long time on 17 M at this hour of the night...and from both coasts nearly simultaneously. The band was very quiet (low noise) which usually means very long skip. I also heard some weak JAs and VKs in the CW band. Antenna here is nothing fancy: a 128 ft. Center Fed Zepp at 40 ft. Conditions tonight reminded me of the 'good old days' (previous sunspot peaks)."

The 6 meter band was full of sync buzz for about three hours. A very exciting evening! Seems the openings start about 0600 UTC and can last till 1000 UTC just about every night here in Hawaii."

Ogg Vorbis is where it is at ... totally free, totally open source, totally unemcumbered by patents ... it should be the standard were lossy audio is quite acceptable, amateur/SW communications being a prime example ... I prefer it over .mp3 format for my music which uses compression ... however, I am too lazy to covert the highly acceptable .mp3 to ogg for casual listening.

Audio which I archive for storage, I usually trancode to ogg, because of the free nature stated above ... I simply wish industry would switch over to ogg as the prevalent standard and drop the costly other forms of encoding ... beats windows media audio and AAC hands down ...

http://www.monclervestsoutlet.com/ (Moncler jackets) story but also from World War II began. France was occupied by Germany and France invaded into two, in the non-German-controlled areas, the abolition of conscription force, a participation of the whole system to replace it exists, the system requires young people to be called to join a "Chantiers de Jeunesse" organization. In the organization, like the special status of those who called Jeunesse et Montagne (JM), which is headquartered in Grenoble.

http://www.monclervestsoutlet.com/59-moncler-mens-jackets (Moncler mens jackets) main work of the organization by a former Air Force official group and those for the Alpine region to teach responsibility by the young are interested in fame and operational staff, of course, in love for the mountains. Boys in the organization there are many opportunities to participate in mountain sports, resulting in close contact with nature. This group has become involved in the French boy was a dream. JM was the adoption of three from the Moncler meeting: Rene Ramillom, Andre Vincent, and Lionel Terray.

http://www.monclervestsoutlet.com/64-moncler-womens-jackets/ 33-year-old Remillon Grenoble was a major ski manufacturers. His military service, provide the group equipment. 26-year-old businessman Andre Vincent in the management of a printing plant before the war. He was a guardian of the mountains and ski coach. In JM, he was the head coach. 22-year-old from Grenoble Lionel Terray one of the best family. He was the Alpine ski champion. The three men sympathetic with the same love for nature, outdoor living and skiing forged a profound friendship. Then go with the flow, Moncler brand was born.

Moncler's information
http://www.monclervestsoutlet.com/69-moncler-kids-jackets/ , moncler founder Ramillon and Vincent returned to France in business, at the suggestion Ramillon Vincent opened in France, two sporting goods stores. And Terry went to Canada for mountain adventure. The world economy started slowly, due to the increasing demand for allocation of natural resources can not keep up, so that recreational activities reduced. These are not stop people who love nature, they began a cheap outdoor camping. Even those who are not very exciting outdoor activities in order to close a new way to experience the natural demand is still growing. But did not match any outfit. To meet this demand, Ramillon and Vincent decided to produce tents and sports gear. Seize this opportunity, they find a company located in Monestier de Clermont, 30 km from Grenoble, sewing equipment production factory.

http://www.monclervestsoutlet.com/ (Moncler outlet) decided to buy the factory. April 1, the same year they set up Moncler SA company. At that time the company's registered capital of only eight million francs, Ramillon as president and executive producer. Then the first year of operation difficult. moncler companies must face the market instability but also the time to seek reliable local customers. Moncler part of the development of tent camping as a function of altitude for development, but also produced sleeping bags and mountaineering. Most important when they produce a waterproof nylon and cotton material inside the tent of innovation, and this tent you can sit opened automatically, only a few kilograms heavy, which can sleep three people. To win a lot of orders moncler, moncler began their glorious history.

Never in history have Co2 levels been lower, that is simply scientific fact, we are actually in a "Co2 Famine", as this man, elequoently, points out:

"Prominent Scientist Tells Congress: Earth in ‘CO2 Famine’

‘The increase of CO2 is not a cause for alarm and will be good for mankind’

Washington, DC - Award-winning Princeton University Physicist Dr. Will Happer declared man-made global warming fears “mistaken” and noted that the Earth was currently in a “CO2 famine now.” Happer, who has published over 200 peer-reviewed scientific papers, made his remarks during today’s Environment and Public Works Full Committee Hearing entitled “Update on the Latest Global Warming Science.”

“Many people don’t realize that over geological time, we’re really in a CO2 famine now. Almost never has CO2 levels been as low as it has been in the Holocene (geologic epoch) - 280 (parts per million - ppm) - that’s unheard of. Most of the time [CO2 levels] have been at least 1000 (ppm) and it’s been quite a bit higher than that,” Happer told the Senate Committee. To read Happer’s complete opening statement click here: [Also: See Inhofe Warns of Costs of Massive $6.7 Trillion ‘Climate Bailout’ & ‘Consensus’ in Collapse: Japanese scientists make ‘dramatic break’ with UN hypothesis of man-made warming! (UK Register) & $ave the Planet? ‘Four climate lobbyists for every member of Congress’ - Number of Lobbyists Up 300% & The Year of the Man-made Global Warming Skeptic]

“Earth was just fine in those times,” Happer added. :The oceans were fine, plants grew, animals grew fine. So it’s baffling to me that we re so frightened of getting nowhere close to where we started,” Happer explained. Happer also noted that “the number of [skeptical scientists] with the courage to speak out is growing” and he warned “children should not be force-fed propaganda, masquerading as science.”

You simply have to, an "out of the box" HP, Dell, Toshiba, etc. is simply slow and insufficient junk, pure and unadulterated ...

A top of the line NVIDIA or Radeon video card (EVGA GeForce GTX 580 is a good performer) 16 gigs of ram, large SSD drives (SATA), 850+ power supply, HD audio, 3.2Ghz processor speed (multi-core (7 is a good number), hyperthreading, etc.), water cooling, USB 3.0 ports, Window 7 64-bit OS with dual boot into Slackware, MSI or other military grade motherboard, etc. and you are off to a good start ... you can improve as funds allow.

I have mine all stuck in a Corsair Obsidian case, lots of screening for air flow, powerful fans for cooling, kewl blue lights, easy "pop open" access to all components, finger-screws, etc.

I don't get the NASA channel anymore on DirecTV.I reckon DirecTV moved it to some other Satellite that would cost me more money.I am not going to pay DirecTV more money just to get the NASA channel.

I reckon that whatever Satellite it is that is suppose to fall down today has done bit the dust, or burned up in the sky.

Our agriculture is tweaked for a twentieth century climate. Crops are failing globally. People are dying. More CO2 doesn't mean more crops, it means more fires and smoke and less vegetation.

Yeah, but Co2 and "global warming" has nothing to do with it, slash and burn on rainforests, over farming of the land without replenishing the necessary nutrients, lack of genetic diversity in the plantings, over use of pesticides with the accompanying increase in tolerance by "the bugs", over use of herbicides, lack of clean and ample water supplies, etc. are what we are looking at ... truth is, with ample water and nutrients, the sands of the desert would be abundant producers of food ...

Already in the central valley of California, over farming and lack of care to the land has found the ground becoming unsuitable to crops, so then trees are planted, the ground further degrades and finally ends up in the production of grapes ... Co2 and global warming have simply played no part what-so-ever in this grim tale of rape of the land ...
greed, corruption, ignorance, laziness, etc. ... your standard culprits ...

Well, then I suggest we need to start adjusting our crops, because when the Earth decides it's going to release more CO2, there is next to nothing we can do about it.

We either adopt and move on.....or we die out.

So in the end, the desert will once again be desert....so what's your point?

See, trying to create an artificial ecosystem isn't likely to produce a long term viable ecosystem. If for no other reason than because it lacks the necessary natural cycles to deal with the accumulation of undesirable products. Such as salt, which exists in the water you're dumping there.
Without enough water to pick up that salt and flush it into the rivers and streams and then out to sea.....eventually you will have excessive salt in your soil and it's going to impact your ecosystem.

Welcome to reality.

We created an artificial growing environment, but because it lacks the full depth of a natural system....it can exist only temporarily.

You definition of natural is "chance", and simply a spin on probability and statistics, I see nothing sacred about terra-forming other planets, other than it would break your definition of "natural."

Today is simply a "screwing-up" of the "natural world" which existed millions, hundreds of thousands, or even just thousands of years ago -- such as when the nile valley was tropical in nature with serious rainfall (proof in the water-weathering of the sphinx.

You sweat insignificant detail and attempt to set scale on your own personal definitions of "natural" or other imagined benchmarks of yours
-- indeed, you are the perfect example of what is wrong with letting delusional "green people" a voice in human activities.

I have the VLC player, but I've mainly stuck with Winamp for playing music because of the excellent free plugins.

I use one from Italy called Sound Solution which has all the capabilities of an $8,000 broadcast audio processor (for controlling the widely varying levels of free audio files, and enhancing the sound), and another from Argentina called SqrSoft Advanced Crossfading which intelligently mixes the end of one song with the beginning of the next -- just as good as any broadcast automation product I've ever used.

Thanks to everyone in this thread for all the suggestions -- I will take a look at the possibilities.

With my best,

Kevin, WB4AIO.

You have this correct ... it would be just as valid to claim this is just the end of the last ice age, as opposed to this being a "human caused global warming."

Don't know and don't care. You claimed it was going into American cars. You've been shown to be wrong. Just as you've shown to be wrong our imported gasoline contains it because we don't import adulterated gasoline. That's done at the tanker depot when loading to ship out to the retailer...and you've already been given sites that MTBE has been discontinued in all gasoline sold at public pumps.

I will simply note, that you claimed you posted the facts, I challenged this with a few of the things you posted which clearly aren't factual, and now you're attempting to change the subject.

So why is it we have cars with factory engines that produce an output greater then 400HP (300kW) when you said there are no such cars?

Why is it that car engines are almost always rated for more than the 50HP you claimed is the most an automotive engine produces?

How come I can get 300kW of net output electricity from a generator with only a 449HP engine?

Why is that engine no bigger than those in cars?

Yea, you just post the facts......but apparently your idea of what is factual has little to do with what they actually are.

Say for instance the manufacturer of your car or truck advertizes the engine at 300 Horsepower.Howsomever, that thar Horsepower is derived from a stripped down test engine mounted on a test stand.By the time that engine is installed into a car or truck, you don't gits 300 Horsepower at the wheels.

We gots The Spirit of St.Louis movie on the TCM channel right now.I saw that movie when it first came out at the Lamar theater on Lamar Street in Jackson in 1956.Its a real Good movie.

Let's let him explain how little horsepower is needed to move a 2000 lb vehicle down a quarter mile dragstrip in 8 seconds. I would be interested in his answer....particularly when it is done with an American V8. Modified, of course, but still.......

Or to pull a 10,000 lb trailer loaded with another vehicle. Figure 1500 pounds for the empty trailer plus the other vehicle......a Ford 1/2 Ton pickup. Just the horsepower to get it up a 5% grade while accelerating from 30 to over 70 mph in less than a half mile. My 388 hp Tundra can do that.

I just looked up the braking HP for a Daewoo Matiz, one of the smallest cars on the road in Korea. That braking HP is 52. So one of the smallest cars on the road in the world has more than 50 braking HP. This out of a tiny 800cc (796) engine. Lots of motorcycles with larger engines than that..

Actually, I said, inferred, etc. that I would suspect waivers are used and it is still to be found in gas, here, but, you really need to re-read my text, if you are all that mistaken, I said what I said ...

You are just an argumentative idiot, post some credible info to what you are saying, else you are just blowing hot air, and most likely, out your arse ... I didn't make any comments on HP or engine size, other than that I support and own muscle cars, and feed them a good fuel, no matter what idiots do, say, rant, etc. ... but it is always like that, idiots and morons sit around and talk out their arses, the capable just do it ...

My Harley Sportster is 1200cc and our Harley touring bike is 1600cc, I don't even have a clue what the braking HP is, do they actually put that in a manual?

My last Harley ElectraGlide (1450cc) had 120,000+ miles on it, but I ran synthetic oil and always added mystery oil to the gas -- the mechanic couldn't believe the bike was in such condition and sounded so good ... but he cautioned the couple I was selling it to that, that was a LOT of miles on a bike that never even had the valves redone! But, I gave 'em a good deal on it ...

I'd love to see a rice burner do even half of that ...

The only care I know of (in the US) that has less than 50HP is the Smartcar rated at 45HP.

Now, I know in Paris, I saw some 'cars' that were basically a cart with a shell over it run by a little one cylinder diesel, but hardly what most people would classify as a car.

Yeah, that is pretty much it ... they think about "the commoners" as

Actually, finding one good woman was such a hassle, that should I ever be faced in doing it again, I'd just live with one, getting a replacement as was necessary ... there are women out there of high standing, good breeding and are high caliber ... but they are rare and getting rarer as I write this ... same for men, a bunch of panty waste (or waist) misfits ... it is simply a sign of the times and an indication of the level of depravity society has sunken to.

All you need do is look about you, see the crime, the corruption, the liars, the swindlers, the mindless morons who speak gibberish and talk non-sense on nonsensical subjects -- football games, drugs, fads, perverts, etc. ... it is not like anyone is attempting to hide it, is it?

He may or may not be of the persuasion which likes same sex partners ... and with gay marriage being allowed, marriage is only a bad joke, unless performed by a church which respects the institution which was given to men marrying women ... end of story.

I don't ... I picture him nude (EWEEEEEEEEE!) with a great video card, state of the art, porno on one screen, joint in one hand, news reader on the other screen and ... well, one does wonder what is in that other hand, doesn't one?

But, I should have mentioned, marriage is kinda like the evolution of the "Japanese Turd Burger", you simply call "chit", "food" ... as the "evolution" of marriage, today, has taken much the same path(s.)

I should have added, if only sw radios where made with such innovation and state of the art components and construction practices it would put the fun back in radio!

Drop in audio boards, turner boards, rf amps/front-ends, filter sections, power supplies, screens, dials (buttons, sliders, USB outputs, etc.) -- which are simply another plug in component, variations in cases, etc. ... what could be done boggles the mind ...

You don't believe the physical evidence; the ice cores; Moana Loa Observatory?

There has not been this much carbon dioxide in the atmosphere for at least 600,000 years. That is a bunch of ice ages. Since 1800 the atmospheric CO2 has skyrocketed, along with the amount of solid combustion artifacts found in sediment and tree rings, that point to industrial processes and deforestation as the most likely culprits. What do you have that refutes this, logically, in an obvious manner we can all understand?

Please note the largest climate cycle is around 100,000 years, so we have gone through several complete astronomical cycles and still today's climate and atmosphere are unique to history.

We were taught there are several kinds of horsepower. Autos use braking horsepower, which is derived mathematically from torque, etc. Tractors use "tow bar" horsepower, which more closely resembles real work capacity.

I suggest you check out the Elecraft company of Aptos, California. They sell highly configurable state of the art radios.

64 bit Windows is like buying a Ferrari that idles above the speed limit.
What's the point? It is 4 times more trouble than 32 and actually runs legacy apps with more difficulty and therefore slower.

It is criminal to have lightning fast computers and networks and have to have everything pass through Norton or whatever to get to you. My Linux boxes are way faster than my friend's Win7 gaming machine.

I can understand how that is your experience, just wonder how many bong hits before you reached that expert conclusion?

Speed compromise is simple the difference between a proprietary, done for profit OS as compared to free OS ... however, you think a moron can screw up a windows machine, just teach them enough to able to take real control of linux box, as a superuser (GOD) and watch the fun!

Luckily, most linux users are like you, can't write they own software, can't recompile drivers, can't wine windows games, can't set firewall and network rules, don't completely understand file permissions and the how/why of it all, can't install difficult/complex apps, etc., etc.

Indeed, you can load up all sorts of viruses and malware on a linux box, if you are not sure of what you are doing -- I am sure many computers in "THE GREAT MAMMOTH ARMY" (of your pot induced visions) are incorrectly configured linux boxes which have been compromised by their very owners/users ... in the end, it is just the same-old-same-old, the monsters which kill you were created by your own very hands.

Yes, I do believe the last ice age is still ending, that in the past, when the earth was devoid of manmade chemicals, pollution and toxins, Co2 levels dwarfed present levels, lush tropical jungles existed, the earth was much, much warmer ...

I believe idiots, such as yourself, might, and continue to, choose some period in a diminishing ice age and call it "normal", or attempt to establish those parameters as an ideal, as a "ruler" to measure from ...
and, pot probably helps (or, other drugs too.)

I also believe taxing won't do a thing ... but I see idiots who do.

I also believe that drug use, or just your limited mental resources, make you victim of your own folly and the scams put forth by evil people:

http://www.nytimes.com/2011/09/25/science/earth/25atlas.html

There is an example of one fraud that is being forced to correct its' diabolically evil and fraudulent information, and this:
"“We use data supplied by the U.S. Snow and Ice Data Center in Boulder, Colo.,” she went on. “Our data shows that it has reduced by 15 percent.
That’s categorical.”

Points out the criminal conspiracy which our criminal public servants are involved in.

But, frequently, real data just seems to disappear in a puff of smoke, and especially puffs of marijuana smoke by drug users ...

My 1996 Ford Explorer went over 250,000 miles before I dumped it, but I had the valves redone and replaced the nylon timing gear/chain with an aluminum one midway through those miles ... but it hauled a 32 ft travel trailer though much of that and knew the gravel roads of many states, was loaned to many family members during its' lifetime, and did a lot of 4 wheeling in the high sierras, before I traded it in ... but it was pretty well due for a new engine ... every time I have ever owned a larger FORD, explorer being the smallest, I was never disappointed, even though I had preferred chevys though much of my life.

My worst experience was with a chevy 454 engine. But then, it was cammed, shaved, blown and driven by a madman in his late 20's ... went thorough a brand new one and two short blocks in the course of as many years ... that car introduced me to a large number of highway patrolmen on the freeways of California ... the only thing which saved me in Nevada was that, back then, there were no speed limits there and damn few cops ... and roads as straight as arrows ...

Yesterday, I read about that Urbee printed car, 8 horsepower 1 cylinder engine, 70 miles per hour, and the Ford electric bicycle.When I was at Scott Air Force Base,Illinois in 1963 I bought a 1957 BMW Isetta car from an Air Force Officer.The car had a 1 cylinder air cooled engine, about 7 or 8 horsepower, top speed about 45 miles per hour.

When I go shopping nowadays I stay on the slowpoke back roads, driving 35 or 40 or 45 miles per hour is more than fast enough for me.I am always ahead of the people behind me.

Age has taught me a new and great respect for speed ... I now find the speed limits on roads to be highly acceptable ... I know what you mean.

I still can close my eyes and feel like I am 21, but the mirror and my age are strong reminders that this is incorrect ... I have watched others with no seeming knowledge of how age is affecting them make stupid and insane over estimates of their abilities ... I hope I can do better ... but hey, it ain't a perfect world ...

Bingo!! Of course, Nobody in Particular wants to write all that off as They are different names for defining where they are looking at the horsepower and where it is most important. As noted, I presented two problems for NIP to figure out using his 'formulas' but it appears he went to bother some other newsgroup.

Actually it all depends on the manufacturer, and even model of tractor.

Some are rated simply on engine hp, much like cars.
Others are rated by dynameters on the rear wheels (ie drawbar horsepower)
Others yet are rated by PTO horsepower.

All are slightly different measurements but all of them measure real work.
The only difference is where they are measuring the work being performed.

Imagine a 'REAL' car here in North America or Europe, with a mere "50 HP", attempting to achieve EVEN 55 MPH ON A HIWAY, in order to merge with traffic already doing that speed and more, without becoming a hood ornament!

My lawn tractor (12 horse Briggs) can't even pull my ol' 92 Ford Aerostar more than 1 MPH.

On the other hand, I COULD get my 2 ton Oldsmobubble to do over 3 MPH on the starter motor alone if I turned the key whilest in 1st gear!

And it had a 11:1 compression ratio!

"Nobody in Particular" has melted into the electronic abyss, now that he found time on his Mom's 'puter, and looked at all the links that FINALLY proved him wrong.

Lookout, DooDoo, and TMT should do the same, see the trend, and drop the hell dead when proven WRONG!

That would not be correct as in the Southern Hemisphere it would be the Spring Equinox, would it not?

It is no big deal for a starter motor to move a car, people have done that for many, many years.It is a real Good way to burn out a starter motor though.Starter motors would last much longer if they had bearings instead of bushings.Those bushings wear down and the stator gets nearer to laying too close to the armature.Time for a new or rebuilt starter motor.Motors are Motors, Engines are Engines.Ford Engine Company.Government Engines Company.

IN a desert droughts are normal
That's why they're deserts
IN a flood plain, floods are normal
That's why they're called flood plains Idiots who move into deserts and complain about lack of water are not brighter than idiots who move into a flood plain and then complain about floods.
And they're even more stupid if they expect others to bail them out because they made stupid choices.

How about people who move to the desert to get away from their allergies, then bring in water so that they can have the gardens the miss from home?

We pay people to figure this stuff out; when we don't like what they tell us, we call them liars. This is not sustainable.

Bearcat 250s were really cool. I loved the bright red LED frequency display, rolling zeros, and chiclet buttons. Scanning was a lot easier before these damn trunking systems came along. There's two malfunctioning 250s stored in my attic. I assume there's nowhere to

Well, yeah, the sold the idea that they, the public servants in our government, could do magic ... and, short term it appeared that way.

Now, all the wealth is gone, all the decent jobs are gone, they are attempting to steal away Social Security and any benefits, have you working until you die AT A NON-EXISTING JOB!, have poisoned the planet with cheap fixes, chemicals, etc., have their salaries, benefits, retirement set exponentially above what anyone in private industry average salaries are, etc., etc.

There is not one damn thing getting "better", now it is all just a game of lies, deceptions, distraction, obfuscation, etc. ... they attempt to keep the frog hypnotized as he boils in his pan ... and it is working far too well ...

It is time for revolution, peaceful if possible and anyway possible if not ... once again a time rolls around for true heroes and men of caliber to step forth and do the right thing. These are exciting times and hold all the potential for the creation of men approaching and equal to the caliber of the forefathers to come into being ... we live in times which are the very fabric which dramatic, dynamic and unbelievable history are created from ... real men were born for these days ...

There is your problem, like a weak woman you keep looking for some to save your sorry and pitiful ass. Now is the time to rise up and be someone who saves someone, a hero ... but then, that is best left for those more capable ... I am afraid you are doing all which is possible,

NO ONE SHOULD USE THAT STINKING DEODORANT!

Rubbing smell on your stink sucks ...

Now, a nice scented antiperspirant is highly desirable! For both women and men ... I mean, I never really need a good smelling man ... women being a totally different matter ... but hey, JR should have already known that!!!

Makes you wonder why he wants good smelling men, doesn't it? <wink>

LOL
Even funnier is who those people actually are Very little evidence that
a) they really want to save ANYONE's as
b) they have enough clues to do so anyway.

We made it past the Guilded Age without a revolution, and when we had

It is always comical to watch a bunch of morons offer to save you, save a group, save a nation or even save the world, from non-existent problems.

Kinda like two elephants screwing, lots of noise, can be a lot of damage to the surroundings, the ground can shake and there can be terror causing noises!

Then it is all over and everything is pretty much the same ... and a better analogy of our present public servants and their actions, I cannot imagine ...
